RITUAL OF THE U. D. C.

PRESIDENT—"Daughters of the Confederacy this day we are gathered together, in the sight of God, to strengthen the bonds that unite us in a common cause; to renew the vows of loyalty to our sacred principles; to do homage unto the memory of our gallant Confederate soldiers, and to perpetuate the fame of their noble deeds unto the third and fourth generations. To this end we invoke the aid of our Lord.

PRESIDENT—"Hear my prayer, O God; attend unto my prayer."

RESPONSE BY ALL PRESENT—"From the ends of the earth will I cry unto thee, when my heart is overwhelmed; lead me to the rock that is higher than I."

PRESIDENT—"For thou, Lord, art good, and ready to forgive, and plenteous in mercy unto all them that call upon thee."

RESPONSE BY ALL PRESENT—"Give ear, O Lord, unto my prayer; and attend to the voice of my supplications."

HYMN—"HOW FIRM A FOUNDATION."

How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord,
Is laid for your faith in His excellent word!
What more can He say than to you He hath said,
You who unto Jesus for refuge have fled?

Fear not, I am with thee; O be not dismayed!
I, I am thy God, and will still give thee aid;
I'll strengthen thee, help thee and cause thee to stand,
Upheld by My righteous, omnipotent hand.

When through the deep waters I call thee to go,
The rivers of woe shall not thee overflow;
For I will be with thee, thy troubles to bless,
And sanctify to thee thy deepest distress.

When through fiery trials thy pathway shall lie,
My grace, all-sufficient, shall be thy supply;
The flame shall not hurt thee; I only design
Thy dross to consume, thy gold to refine.

The soul that to Jesus has fled for repose
I will not, I will not desert to His foes;
That soul, though all hell should endeavor to shake,
I'll never—no, never—no, never forsake.

PRAYER.

PRESIDENT—"Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we adore Thy love and providence in the history of our country, and especially would we thank Thee for our Confederate history.

"We thank Thee for its pure record of virtue, valor and sacrifice, and for the inspiring reflection that, despite its bitter disappointments and sorrows, it proclaims for us, to all the world, that we came through its years of trial and struggle with our battered shields pure, our character as a patriotic and courageous people untarnished, and nothing to regret in our defense of the rights and the honor of our Southland.

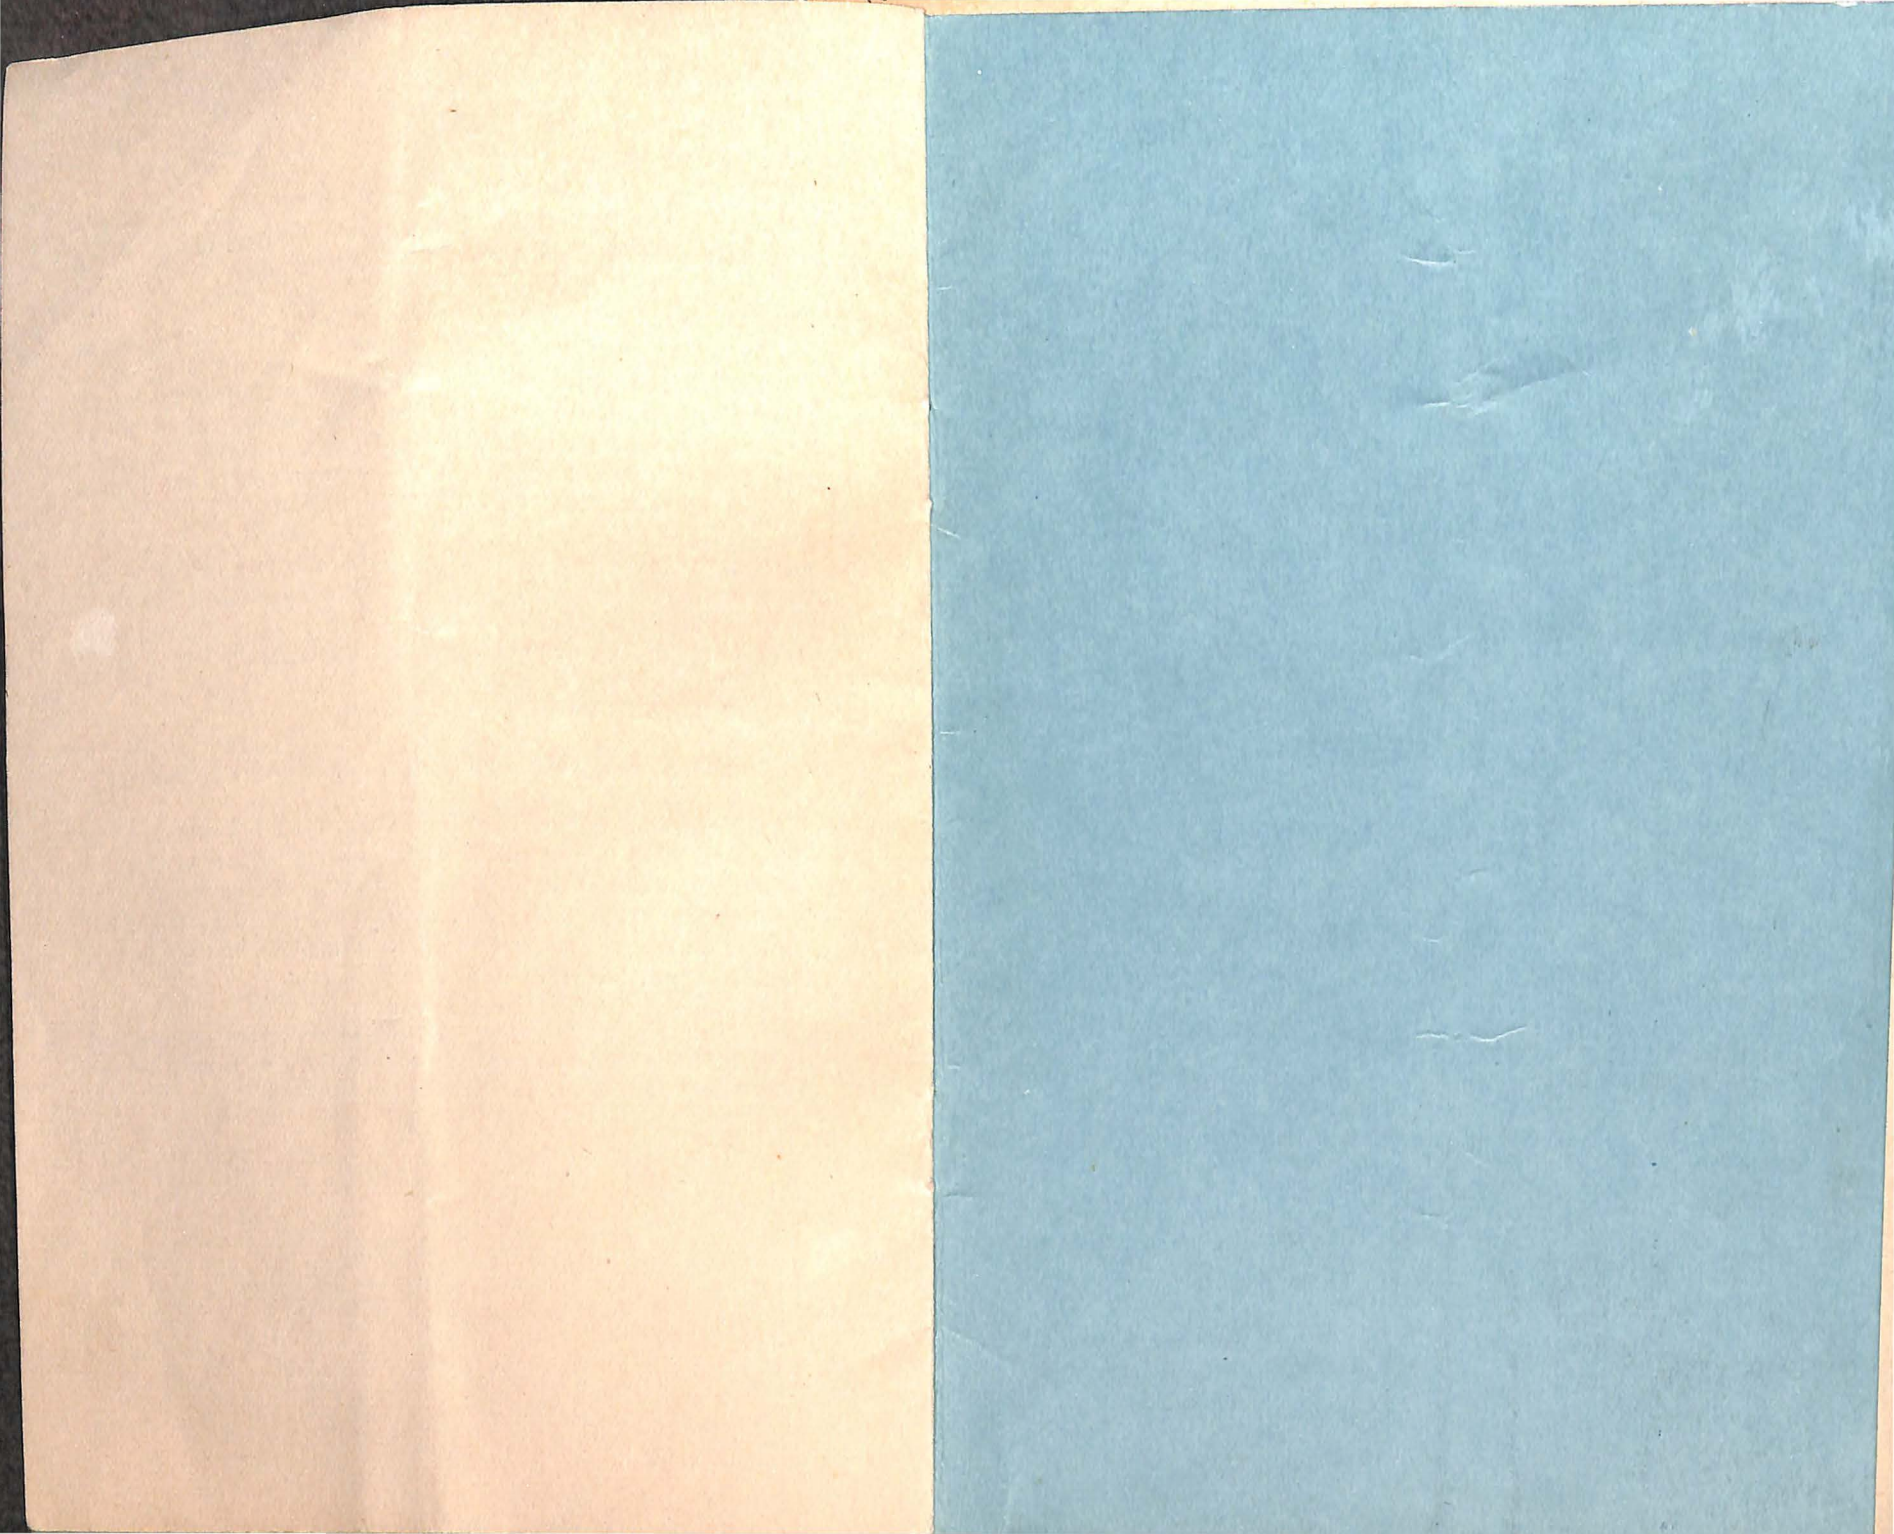

"Give us grace, our Heavenly Father, faithfully to accept Thy will concerning us, and make us all to glorify thee in a sincere obedience to Thy holy commandments, through the merits and mediation of Thy Son, our only Savior, Jesus Christ."

RESPONSE BY ALL PRESENT—"Amen."

(The President says the Lord's Prayer, followed by all present):

"Our Father which art in Heaven, hallowed by Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil; for Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen."

PRESIDENT—"And now, by the authority in me vested as President of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, I do hereby declare this Convention opened and ready for business."

Hymn

BLEST BE THE TIE

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above.

We share our mutual woes,
Our mutual burdens bear;
And often for each other flows
The sympathizing tear.

When we asunder part,
It gives us inward pain;
But we shall still be joined in heart,
And hope to meet again.

said there lay a man two hours to have been killed. This struck me as a most sentiment - from a man who recently arrayed in deadly combat, above used every available means to find out the whereabouts of the general General all of his efforts, he must have a heart in his breast - back to arriving at Waynesboro our transportation never came and we had to remove our march across the Country to North Garden Depot on the Danthun now and on to Lynchburg. At this point my Father met me and he being a Physician, after consulting with the Surgeon of the Regt. he gave me into his charge, meeting a young Physician friend who was in charge of one of the wards in the Genl. Hospital at Lynchburg I had him register me, but he allowed me to go to my room some thirty miles distant and under my Father's treatment
 I regained my health, in the meantime my old Co. had been completely de-mated Captains and killed instead of looking the few up who had been left having friends in the 18th Regt Regt - I reported to them and was accepted as a man with them till the

in my mind, I have the consciousness of duty faithfully performed, and for which I have the commendation of my superiors, I remained with the command until it was disbanded, the officers received a sixty days furlough, and was allowed to go to any army of service they desired.
 I took mine, and accompanied my father, Miss, who was visiting me, at the time, about the time of the expiration of my sixty days, my Captain of the first Co. in which I enlisted came home, and heard of my being also, at home, through some acquaintance from Mr. Carn to Quin and influenced me to return with him. This was in May 1862. I joined the old Co. at Plumers Hill, down in the Valley of Va. and in close proximity to the enemy, but for some reason we did not get together, anyhow.
 Mathews took and active during Genl.
 Jacksons Conceal not very long himself and Genl. Ashby cover had down on the line and across the Valley we went, as far as Harper's Ferry I got on the Dick list from Chronic Diarrhea and was left Luray in Page Co. Just two weeks had elapsed when the Army made a return trip, with some fifteen hundred or two thousand prisoners they had captured since they left me. My Regt the 1st Va, was in command of the Prisoners and were in front on the return, when I rejoined them, not fit for duty, I got along with them as best I could and we took the Prisoners to Waynesboro. on the 1st C.T.D. R.R. at which point we had to wait for transportation, which was materialized, at Waynesboro we heard of the death of Genl. Astley. and that day June the 6th 1862, his body was brought to Waynesboro and layed in state in the Massie house, just provided to his credit on the day he had captured his antagonist - Gen Percy Wyona Barr, who had been sent across the mountains with some prisoners and turned over to us - being on the sick list and a non commissioned officer at the time. These and other officers were Paroled for the day but must report at 6 o'clock.

"Boys in Gray of Dixie Land."

(1) We never can forget the day
When from their homes in Dixie Land
Our Southern soldiers marched away
To fight the foes of Dixie Land
They kissed the homefolks said "Good bye"
Then marched to suffer, bleed or die
The bravest men beneath the sky.

The Boys in Gray of Dixie Land."

(2) And thousands fell to rise no more
Who wore the Gray for Dixie Land
In battle shock - mid battle roar
Those heroes died for Dixie Land.
Their comrades wept o'er brothers dead
Then marched and starved & fought & bled.
Those Southern born and Southern bred Heroic boys of Dixie Land.

(3) At last o'erpowered our cause was lost
O Sad the day for Dixie Land
A remnant yielded to a host.
And lost the flag of Dixie Land
At Appomattox right to might Surrendered all save honor bright
We know our cause tho' lost was right
Righteous cause of Dixie Land.

(4) The stars and stripes triumphant wave
Throughout our dear old Dixie Land
And each Confederate true and brave
Accepts that flag for Dixie Land.
True duty to the Stripes and Stars
We'll keep but to the Stars and Bars
We'll give undying love because
It was the flag of Dixie Land.

(5) Our thinning ranks remind us all
Who wore the gray for Dixie Land.
We soon shall hear our last roll call
And pass away from Dixie Land
We'll meet our comrades long since gone
And with them stand before God's throne
And there, as here, we'll proudly own
We wore the Gray for Dixie Land.

(6) O Mothers, sisters, daughters, we
The "Boys in Gray" of Dixie Land
Give highest praise with three times three
God bless the Wives of Dixie Land!
They shared with us each joy and woe
They felt with us each bitter blow
Can earth their equals ever show?
God bless the Wives of Dixie Land!

ADDRESS ON THE LIFE AND CHARACTER OF JEFFERSON DAVIS DELIVERED
BY C. S. McNULTY JUNE 3, 1908, BEFORE WILLIAM WATTS
CAMP OF THE UNITED DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY OF ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.

MR. CHAIRMAN, VETERANS, DAUGHTERS
AND SONS OF VETERANS:

It was with great timidity that I consented to attempt to make an address on the life of the great man whose birth and noble deeds we are meeting together this evening to commemorate. From my earliest knowledge of the history of our Country, and especially of our South Land, there seemed to surround the memory of Jefferson Davis a sacred halo that pointed him out as the only true martyr in our American history.

It has been truly said that "it is largely through their representative men that we must interpret the genius of people." This has been true in all ages and among all people. The height of Grecian civilization is measured by the inflection of her language and the wisdom of her philosophers; the Roman by the prowess of its warriors; the Elizabethan age by the genius of Bacon, Newton and Shakespeare; and in our own Southland was that particularly true. There was no marked difference, in the beginning, between the Puritan and the Cavalier-- each came from a good old English stock, each came to America with an ideal and a purpose. The stock that gave us Emerson, Longfellow and Whittier is to be admired; but, for us, the stock that gave us Jefferson Davis is to be adored. Not all students of American History observe that for the first forty years of the life of the great American Republic-- from 1789 to 1830, the seat of active Nationalism was in the South. Who were the group of men, and from what section, that gave us the Declaration of Independence and the great American Constitution? The Union of States, for which Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan fought, can almost be accredited to the combined genius of five Southern, Virginia Gentlemen-- Washington, Jefferson, Marshall, Madison, and Monroe. It was this group of statesmen, and during a period, while Jefferson Davis was growing to manhood, who formulated the fundamental principles upon which our government was founded. During this period our Constitution and Laws were interpreted and tested; during this period we find the great principle that was settled by our Civil War, asserted by almost every state in what then formed the American Union.

From 1830 to 1860 we find a defensive South, a land where its men of genius recognize and have the highest regard for liberty and constitutional principles; but this love of liberty and chartered rights has cast over it the dark shadow of human slavery. This brought about a condition in which Aristocracy was paramount to Democracy. This condition brought out the most inflexible adherence to the principles that were necessary to the life of these ideals-- public integrity and a passion for principles, tho' they lead to ruin.

When the Sessession Convention met on February 4, 1861; when the time was ripe for a decision by the arbitrament of the sword, whether the State or the Union was supreme, fortunate indeed were the South, America and humanity at large, that Jefferson Davis was chosen the President of the Confederacy. There does not seem to have been any question in the minds of any one of the Delegates to that Convention who would be chosen as the head of the new Republic. Jefferson Davis was a true type of the South's honor, integrity, and rectitude of purpose. In him was embodied that patriotism and love of law that prompted every man who wore the gray-- that firmness which could restrain the impetuous, and that lofty passion which could inspire deeds of heroism. He never forgot that he was a Constitutional President-- a representative of a people whose cause must survive or perish by the principle they fought for, and who saw instinctively that there could be no compromise of that principle-- that the cause would brook nothing but complete victory or absolute defeat. With him the constitutional right he stood for was as the "Rock of Ages" and who, before me tonight, does not rejoice that he was inflexible?

Would we, oh Daughters and Sons of the Soldiers who wore the gray, be assembled to do him reverence this evening, if he had breathed a thought of compromising the great principle that gave birth to the Confederacy? No, Jefferson Davis truly represented the South in not permitting negotiations for peace or any other terms than absolute Independence. He had seen the clouds of war rising, he had stood in the halls of Congress and heard the frenzied oratory of abolitionists. He knew "the irrepressible conflict" was on. He knew that the South was in revolution against the government that was attempting to take away from a State the sacred right of sovereignty. He knew that this revolution once on- there could be no hope of compromise. There could be no pleasant half way camping ground between victory or death-- the cause they fought for must be crowned with success or die in the last ditch at Appomattox.

Now let us see briefly why Jefferson Davis was the logical head of the Confederate Government and the truest type of Southern thought, and genius.

Soon after the Revolutionary War Samuel Davis who had served in that war in a Georgia Regiment settled in Kentucky at almost the time Thomas Lincoln, of Rockingham County, Virginia removed to Kentucky. Jefferson Davis, the son of the Georgian, was born June 3, 1808, and Abraham Lincoln February 12, 1809. The family of the former moved to Mississippi, of the latter to Illinois.

By what strange fatality does "the moving finger" sometimes write the destinies of men! Had Davis removed to Illinois and Lincoln to Mississippi, what different stories might have clustered around those names. Yet we cannot imagine that the main current of the great struggle with which they were afterwards, words identified would have been changed. Both were alike inflexible and ardent to their trusts-- the greatest difference being their point of view.

I can now but briefly outline the principle events in the tumultuous life of our hero. We know that he spent his boyhood at his father's plantation in Mississippi, and that on March 11, 1824, he received, strangely enough, an appointment, as a cadet, to West Point, from the hands of Jno. C. Calhoun, then Secretary of War. While there he displayed those traits that marked him as a leader of men, but was not as profound a student as he seems to have become later in life. It is a fact, worthy of comment, that the subject he was most interested in while there was "Rawle on the Constitution," which work taught that "The State may wholly withdraw from the Union." For three years after Davis left West Point he served the U. S. as a First Lieutenant. In 1835 he resigned his Commission in the army and married Miss Taylor, a daughter of Gen. Zachary Taylor, and for eight years he enjoyed private life on his plantation in Mississippi. During this period he was not idle, but applied himself systematically to the study of economic and political subjects. From 1843 to 1861 we find Jefferson Davis a servant of his State and Country, filling positions of the highest honor and trust-- National Elector, Member of the House of Representatives, U. S. Senator, and Col. of Volunteers in the Mexican War, Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Pierce. His services in the Mexican War were of the most distinguished character. It is a historical fact that the prompt and vigorous action of Jefferson Davis won the Battle of Buena Vista, and that battle made Zachary Taylor President.

The character of the man and his exalted ideas can only be properly recognized by a study of his career in the Senate of the U. S. It was in that body that his rich learning and his shining abilities as an Orator and Debater were displayed to a most striking advantage. He and Henry Clay, "the great Pacificator" were warm friends. On one occasion Mr. Clay in urging him to vote for one of his compromise measures, said to him- "The passage of this measure will give peace to the country for thirty years longer, at least, you and I will be under the ground by that time." Mr. Davis' lofty reply was: "I cannot consent to transfer to posterity an issue that is as much ours as theirs, when it is evident the sectional inequality will be greater then than now and render hopeless the attainment of justice."

Sons of Veterans, suppose he had consented to Mr. Clay's compromise, and as the great Southern Leader in the Senate he could, no doubt have secured its passage, might we not now have been involved in the very civil strife that left our Country desolate forty years ago? It was his disposition never to shirk any duty or to evade any responsibility that caused him and his generation to fight to a finish the Civil War and not leave it to posterity.

I wish I could take time to give many more illustrations of his noble character and un-compromising spirit.

Soon after he was inaugurated President the first gun was fired at Fort Sumpter, and the greatest war of modern times was on; because it was a conflict of Americans against Americans-- the flames of passion on one side were fed by the writing and acts of such persons as Wm. Lloyd Garrison, John Brown, and Harriet Beecher Stowe-- the other side was nerved to a determined resistance by threatened invasion, and the trampling under foot of what was believed to be a sacred right.

Jefferson Davis surrounded himself with the ablest men in the South as his Cabinet Officers, and almost daily, for four long bloody years, they were in consultation. While he was strong in his convictions and sought all the light possible before making up his mind-- when once he came to a conclusion he was immovable as adamant.

But some will ask, "did he not make mistakes?" Yes, perhaps he did. He might have ordered the victorious Confederate Armies after the first battle of Manassas to advance on Washington City, and that City might have fallen and become the Capital of the Confederate States. In other ways he has been criticized; but for my part I had just as soon stand on this platform tonight and attempt to criticize the Acts of that Great Being whose ways are inscrutable and past finding out as to attempt to point ^{out} the defects and errors in the life of Jefferson Davis.

You hoary headed Veterans, whom we love to honor, and you Daughters and Sons, who have taken up the task of keeping alive the memory of their noble deeds, know the history of this awful struggle from Fort Sumpter until Gen. Lee surrendered and Jos. E. Johnston quit. Dr. Talmadge, that greatest American pulpit orator has pictured, with a master's hand, how the Northern armies returned in all the pomp and circumstance of war, marching with proud and victorious tread, ~~and~~ reading their glory in a Nation's eyes.

Henry W. Grady, that matchless Southern Orator, whose untimely death we all deplore, has told, while a Boston audience was moved to tears, how our Confederate Veterans returned to their homes.

After the cause he had fought for was dead and buried, along with the large majority of his comrades, in the yellow clay of Appomattox, he buttoned up his gray jacket, and enfeebled by wounds, having fought to exhaustion, he wrings his comrades hands in silence and lifting his pallid and tear-stained eyes once more to those hills, dotted with the graves of his noble comrades, he starts on his painful journey-- he finds his home in ruins, his fields desolate, his stock destroyed, his money worthless-- What does he do? Does he faint? Does he fall by the way? By no means. His is that unconquered spirit which has all along been reflected in Jefferson Davis. The soldier goes to his home, starts anew, and it may be interesting to know that not until 1900--forty-five years after the beginning of the Civil War was there as much money per capita in circulation in the ^{Southern States} land as at the beginning of that war.

It would be too much for me to attempt to delineate the awful suffering of the South during the period of Reconstruction, and while Jefferson was being imprisoned and abused and buffettered. But I must speak of the noble grandeur with which he stood those sufferings. While imprisoned he partook of the holy sacrament and expressed as much resignation as mortal man could have ^{done} under similar conditions. His was almost the same God-like sentiment that was breathed by the Great Master,

"Lord forgive them for they know not what they do."

We find that he harbored no bitterness-- no resentment. He accepted the consequences of the War in simple resignation. When Gen. Grant was stricken, at Mt. McGregor, he was asked to write a criticism of his military career. He declined for two reasons:

- " 1st Because Gen. Grant ^{is} was dying.
- 2nd While he invaded our Country, it was with an open hand;

And so far as I know, he abetted neither arson nor pillage-- instead of seeking to disturb the quiet of his closing hours, I would, if it were in my power, contribute to the peace of his mind and the comfort of his body. "

And it may be asked, was he ever reconciled to the fall of the Confederacy? I am indebted to a noble Veteran, who is present tonight, for an extract from Jefferson Davis' last address, delivered at Mississippi City 1888, which contains the following patriotic sentiment:

"Men in whose hands the destinies of our Southland lie, for love of her I break my silence to speak to you a few words of respectful admonition. The past is dead- let it bury its dead, its hopes, and its aspirations; before you lies the future, a future full of golden promise, a future expanding national glory, before which all the world shall stand amazed. Let me beseech you to lay aside all rancor, all bitter sectional feeling, and to take your places in the ranks of those who will bring about a consummation devoutly to be desired-- a re-united country."

A great Northern paper commenting upon this utterance at the time said, "This utterance is worthy to stand with the best efforts of any of the leaders of men who have figured in our history."

And now to you, Sons and Daughters of Veterans, let us emulate his example-- let us keep alive the noble spirit of this noble man, and see to it that history correctly records the acts, when in the flesh, of the martyr of the Confederacy.

VETERANS CONGRATULATE WOODROW WILSON

William Watts Camp of Confederate Veterans held a meeting last night, looking forward to the 19th of January, with fond anticipations, to honor their great Chief, Robert E. Lee. Arrangements for Gettysburg are progressing satisfactorily. The following committee was appointed to perfect arrangements for the 19th of January: D. M. Armstrong, P. C.; J. B. Elliott, P. C.; S. L. Crute, adjutant; William Griffin, vidette, and E. J. Reed, commander ex-officio. The meeting was well attended and most enthusiastic. The following letter of congratulation by the Adjutant was ordered sent to President-elect Wilson:

"William Watts Camp, United Confederate Veterans, wish to congratulate you and the United Confederates throughout the confines of the United States upon the selection of a Virginian by birth, and the son of a Confederate, as President of our United country. Verily we believe "thou hath come to thy kingdom for such a time as this." The Blue and Gray will meet in July, 1913, men who wore the gray and men who wore the blue, will meet on the famous field of Gettysburg to clasp hands with truly loyal hearts and present to the world an object lesson of friendship and forgiveness such as only Americans, whose valor has been tried by fire, can afford.

"Esse quam videri."

Worshipping with us this morning are the members of the Willeau Watts Camp of Confederate Veterans. I wish to welcome them to our worship on this, the 46th anniversary of the battle of Manassas. We meet to worship God this morning upon the very hour in which that first important engagement of the civil war was waged. The message of the morning is, therefore, to be of primary ^{reference} ~~importance~~ to these men, in whose memory the 21st of July 1861, will ever be green. But it is hoped that this message from God ~~to~~ may be of benefit to all these assembled worshippers. Certainly it is far from the intention of these soldiers + ~~certainly~~ ^{certainly} it is far from my purpose to engender strife or make more acute the asperities that follow in the wake of civil war. It is rather in the spirit of comradeship, in the consciousness of integrity, and ⁱⁿ with the hope that we may learn to esteem our civil patriotism quite as highly as we esteem our military patriotism, that we meet.

~~The story~~ In October 1865 Gen. Lee accepted the presidency of Washington College at Lexington Va. at a salary of fifteen hundred dollars a year. He had previously been offered the position as president of the National Insurance Co. organized by capitalists in New York, at a salary equal to that of the president of the U.S. & altho poor in purse, he decided, as he always did, to follow what he deemed to be the line of duty. He accepted the presidency of Washington College, now Washington & Lee University, and devoted the remainder of his life to the education of young men.

It is said that upon one occasion, during the stirring times of reconstruction, several professors in his college, in ~~the~~ a company of ladies & gentlemen, denounced the government of the U.S. in Gen. Lee's presence, and he reproved their harsh strictness by reciting the following lines, written by a Persian poet:

"Learn from your Orient shall to love thy foe,
And store with pearls the hand that brings the woe,
Free, like your rock, from base vindictive pride,
Emblaze with gems, the wrist that rent thy side."

After reciting these pointed lines in a clear voice & with much feeling, Gen. Lee added: "Ought not we who profess to be governed by the principles of Christianity, rise at least, to the standard of this Mohammedan precept & learn to forgive our enemies?" It is with this spirit of the Great Chieftain that we would approach the God, to whom are directed the prayers of those who wore the blue & those who wore the grey.

My text is in ^{II} Timothy, 2: 3, 4, "Suffer hardships with me as a good soldier of Jesus Christ, who soldier on service, subdueth himself in the affairs of this life, that he may please Him, who enrolled him as a soldier."

Paul presents the Christian life under a variety of figures. Sometimes he presents it under husbandry, as when he tells the Galatians that whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap; and that "in due season we shall reap if we faint not." Sometimes he represents the Christian service as an athletic contest, as when he tells the Corinthians that "every man who striveth in the games, is temperate in all things; or when he reminds the Ephesians ~~that~~ that "our wrestling is not against flesh & blood, but against principalities, against the powers, against the world-rulers of this darkness, against the spiritual hosts of wickedness in high places." Sometimes - indeed most frequently, he portrays Christian life under the figure of military service, as when he charges the Thessalonians "to put on the breast-plate of faith & love, & for a helmet, the hope of salvation;" or when he writes to the Philippians of Epaphroditus, as his fellow soldier. In the few verses of this chapter, he employs all three of these figures, but the one of which he is especially fond, is that of military service. Suffer hardness with me as a good soldier of Jesus Christ. No soldier on service entangleth himself in the affairs of this life; that he may please him who enrolled him as a soldier." Every Christian may be regarded as a husbandman, an athlete, a soldier; but of the three similitudes, the one which fits him best is that of a soldier.

Military service was familiar to Paul, especially in his imprisonments. He had been arrested by soldiers at Jerusalem, escorted by troops to Caesarea, sent under the charge of a centurion & a band of soldiers to Rome & had been kept there under military guard for many months during his first imprisonment & for we know not how long the second. Probably the place of his imprisonment was near the praetorian camp. This would be so ordered for the convenience of the soldiers who had charge of him. He therefore had large opportunities for observing closely all the details of ordinary military life. He must frequently have seen soldiers under drill, on parade, on guard, on the march, must have watched them cleaning, mending & sharpening their weapons; putting on their armor & taking it off - And often as the old man sat during the hours of his enforced inactivity in the prison, he compared the details of a soldier with those of a Christian, & noticed how admirably they corresponded with each other.

Not only was this service familiar to Paul, but well known throughout the length & breadth of the Roman Empire. Nearly every one knew the kind of life a soldier of the Empire had to live. So when he penned these words to Timothy, his son in the ministry, he employed a figure which would be well understood. That Paul's imagery may be meaningful to us let us notice what his words suggest.

1. Hardships which fit the soldier for service.

"Endure hardness with me as a good soldier of Jesus Christ"

2. The entanglements which retard the soldier's service, so soldier on service untroubled himself with the affairs of this life.

3. Motive that inspires the soldier, "That he may please him who hath enrolled him as a soldier."

1. Hardships that fit one for a soldier.

Paul exhorts Timothy to endure hardness with him as a good soldier. Timothy was young & inexperienced & therefore liable to be disheartened by the coldness & apathy of professed ~~Christians~~ friends & by the hostility and

5-
& contempt of avowed enemies. He must brace himself & discipline himself to endure such things.

It is quite well known fact that it was ~~on~~ ^{on} this very day 46 years ago, that Gen. Bee, in appealing to his men to resist the charges of the enemy pointed to Gen. Thomas J. Jackson & exclaimed: "Look! there stands
Jackson, like a stone wall." Yet we do not think of Gen.
Jackson's stone-wallness as something that was born on a July day. It was in early life that this man determined to conquer every weakness he had, physical, mental & moral. He held all of his powers with a firm hand. To his great self-discipline & self-mastery he owed his success.
So determined was he to harden himself to the weather, that he could not be induced to wear an overcoat in winter. "I will not give in to the cold," he said. For a year, on account of dyspepsia, he lived on buttermilk & stale bread, & wore a wet shirt next his body because his doctor advised it, altho' everybody else ridiculed the idea. This was while at the Virginia Military Institute. His doctor advised him to retire at nine o'clock; & no matter where he was, or who was present, he always sought his bed on the minute. He was the creator of his hardihood, the architect of his own fate. Hence Jackson became, what Col. G. F. Hudson, ~~the~~ his most voluminous & exhaustive biographer, has said of him, "One of the few Great Generals of modern times."

But Paul knew - Jackson knew, Lee knew that while being a good military soldier is a desirable, & be a good soldier of the cross is infinitely and transcendently better. Jackson was a great ~~man~~ as a soldier and great as a Christian. But alas, that can not be said of all men. Some men were brave in the time of war, who are cowards in time of peace. Many brave men in battle, have never conquered themselves.

This was a soldier's epitaph:

"Here lies a soldier whom all must applaud,
 Who fought many battles at home & abroad:
 But the hottest engagement he ever was in
 Was the conquest of self in the battle of sin."

When I see a soldier, makes no difference what uniform he wore in 61-65, - who in his old age is giving way to intemperance, to profanity, to vice, I feel that no matter how many engagements & encounters ~~they~~ ^{he} ~~have~~ met, life's real battle has not yet been fought by ~~them~~ ^{him}. Horace once said: "It is sweet to die for one's country." But without deprecating this sentiment at all, I submit to you that it is just as sweet to live for one's country. There are many who in times of obvious crisis, when the bugle summons to battle, cheerfully make great sacrifices, even unto death; but who in the "weak, ~~time~~ piping time of peace," by immoral living, subvert the principles for which they once fought.

In a N.E. argument which were put in that manner could change up something else in the third days fight at Gettysburg, then were three private - a father and two sons, who marched side by side. The boys were 16
 + 19 years old. In the ~~very~~ ^{very} thick of the fight, with blanchard face + a voice that thither with emotion
 the younger of the two boys cried: "Oh father! father, stand father?" The other brother replied, his eyes flashing fire,
 "We've no time to look for father now. Our work lies yonder."
 pausing at the touching behavior that earned the title.
 That young man was Plato Decker, Sp. C., whose name is a name held dear in his native state. In the dark days of Reconstruction, which followed the war, he exhibited a courage equal to that displayed upon the ~~to the~~ field. In the state legislature, in congressional sessions, in federal courts with pioneer bravery in the face, he never faltered. He knew no fear. And yet that man, with all his brilliancy, & he shone as a star of the first magnitude, with all his ~~characteristic~~ ^{bravery} courage, & it was that of a Paladian, died before he reached the prime of life with delicate tremors. I shall yearn to be as brave in your patriotism as in military patriotism, I shall yearn to be true + loyal soldier for Brazil - a very necessary warfare against the world, the flesh, & the devil, for this country of our continent our great foe.

II. The Entanglements that retard service.
 The soldier must be undivided in his service.
 In the war of '61. men left their callings - their farms & merchandise, in order to support a cause they felt to be just. Likewise, the apostle declares, the Christian must know no divided devotion in the service of his Lord and Commander. It is not a legitimate inference to draw from these words, to declare that men should sever business connections in order that they might become better Christians. Our callings in life afford us opportunities to apply the great principles of our religion. Elsewhere Paul declares that ~~the~~ Christians should attend to their own business, work with their own hands that they might walk honestly toward them who are without and have need of nothing. This advice ~~is~~ is that everyone continue in the same calling in which grace found him. I. Cor. 7:20. The Christian soldier must not avoid his business, but entanglements. He must make his vocation more significant than his avocation. Many men have poor siding facilities. Few months ago there was a wreck just ^{out} of Washington City on the B. & O. R.R. The accommodation ought to have been in the switch; but had delayed & the express train ran into the local & many lives were lost. The R. R. philosophy is this: not every thing is of equal importance. Secondary things must give way to primary things. Indulgence must be sacrificed for service. Entanglements must be avoided for the sake of the warfare we wage.

III. The Christian life must be motivated in the desire to please Christ. "In order that he may please Him who hath enrolled him as a soldier." We know how soldiers were often stirred, in war times, to deeds of daring, by the consciousness that their commander was watching them. They wished to please their superiors. Napoleon ordered Marshall Ney to direct a line of attack upon a fort. Ney obeyed, but his soldiers were repulsed. Again he gave the command & again they retreated. The third time he urged them to advance; but they refused, saying, "We prefer to die where we are." Whereupon, Marshall Ney leaped from his horse, seized a musket, started for the fort, shouting, "The Emperor, the Emperor has commanded it." Every soldier inspired by his boldness, & the name of the Emperor, rallied & the fort was taken.

It is the desire to please the Captain of our salvation that must actuate us in our Christian living and serving.

An old soldier lay dying in the hospital. "Here", he shouted out. The nurse ran to his side. "What do you want?" she said. "Nothing", was his reply. "Did you not call?" "Oh", said he, "they are calling the roll up yonder & I was answering to my name" - God grant that when our bottling is over, we may be able to answer "Here", to our name in eternity.

In Memoriam

We are called to mourn the death of Resolved.

That we recall with deep sorrow the death of these our Comrades; while we know that man is mortal & that we must all yield to the Angel of death, whose tireless wings fan
our faces from the cradle to the grave;
we remember with aching hearts that shall see their faces no more but we also remember with grateful pride that they have not lived in vain. They have served their Country in war & in peace. They have "fought a good fight" & they have "kept the faith".

They have died as they have lived: faithful to their beloved South, faithful to her glorious history & faithful to their Comrades in arms.

They will be sadly missed when we gather with thinking hearts in our meetings. But their memories will abide

THE CONFEDERATE MUSEUM

In the Capital of The Confederacy,
Richmond, Va.

THIS house was built by Dr. Brockenbrough in 1819 and used as a private residence until 1862, when Mr. Lewis Crenshaw, the owner, sold it to the city of Richmond for the use of the Confederate Government.

The city, having furnished it, offered it to Mr. Davis, but he refused to accept the gift. The Confederate Government then rented it for the "Executive Mansion" of the Confederate States.

President Davis lived here with his family, using the house both in a private and official capacity. The present "Mississippi" Room was his study, where he often held important conferences with his great leaders. In this house, amid the cares of State, joy and sorrow visited him; "Winnie," the cherished daughter, was born here, and here "little Joe" died from the effects of a fall from the back porch. It remained Mr. Davis' home until the evacuation of the city of Richmond. He left with the government officials on the night of April 2, 1865.

* * * * *

On the morning of April 3, 1865, General Godfrey Witzel, in command of the Federal troops, upon entering the city, made this house his headquarters. It was thus occupied by the United States Government during the five years Virginia was under military rule, and called "District No. 1"

In the present "Georgia" Room, a day or two after the evacuation, Mr. Lincoln was received. He was in the city only a few hours.

When at last the military was removed and the house vacated, the city at once took possession, using it as a public school for more than twenty years. It was the first public school in the city.*

War had left its impress on the building, and the constant tread of the little feet did almost as much damage. It was with great distress that our people (particularly the women) saw the "White House of the Confederacy" put to such uses, and rapidly falling into decay.

To save it from destruction, a mass-meeting was called to take steps for its restoration. A society was formed, called the "Confederate Memorial Literary Society," whose aim was the preservation of the Mansion. Their first act was to petition the city to place it in their hands, to be used as a Memorial to President Davis and a Museum of those never-to-be-forgotten days, '61-'65.

It was amazing to see the widespread enthusiasm aroused by the plan. With as little delay as possible the city, acting through the Aldermen and Council, made the deed of conveyance, which was ratified by the then Mayor of Richmond, the Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson. But there were still some legal points to be considered, another site to be chosen and a school-house built, before they could give possession. It was, however, formally turned over to the Society in 1890, and accepted for them by their chairman, Col. John B. Cary, of this city.

The delapidation of the entire property was extreme, but to its restoration and preservation the Society had pledged itself. They had no money—the city had already given its part—what could be done?

To raise the needed funds it was decided to hold a "Memorial Bazaar" in Richmond for the joint benefit of the the Museum and the monument to the Private Soldier and Sailor.

All through the South the plan of the Museum and the Bazaar was heartily endorsed; so that donations of every kind poured in. Each State of the Confederacy was represented by a booth, with the name, shield and flag of her State. The whole sum realized was $31,400. Half of this was given to complete the monument to the Private Soldier and Sailor now standing on Libby Hill, and the other half went to the Museum.

The partition walls were already of brick, and the whole house had been strongly and well built, but the entire building was now made fire-proof, and every other possible precaution taken for its safety. In every particular the old house in its entirety was preserved, the wood work (replaced by iron) being used for souvenirs.

*NOTE—Since printing this we find that the Lancasterian or Valley School was organized February 22, 1816, and on January 10, 1834, it was turned over to the City Council who were to act as trustees, making this the first free school in the city.

It was repaired and ready for occupancy late in 1895. On February 22, 1896, the dedication service was held, and the Museum formally thrown open to the public. The Governor, Col. Charles T. O'Ferrall, and staff, being present on that occasion. The opening prayer was by the venerable Confederate chaplain, Rev. Moses D. Hoge, D. D., and the oration by Gen. Bradley T. Johnston, C. S. A.

But the house was entirely empty. Rapidly the memorials were gathered from each loyal State and placed in their several rooms. From start to finish the whole work has been a free-will offering to the beloved Cause.

The treasury had been nearly exhausted by the restoration of the building. The current expenses were met only by the strictest economy, and largely carried on by faith. Nothing has been bought in the whole Museum, except in the case of the "Chapman Pictures," which show the wonderful defense of Charleston; and the "Sheppard Pictures," giving in detail the life of the "Confederate Soldier." Their purchase was made possible by the liberality of friends throughout the South, who prized their historic importance, as well as their artistic merit. Each is the work of an eye-witness in the scenes they depict.

In the past thirteen years much has been accomplished. We are free from debt; and our Museum is now widely known. But much now lies ahead in the ideal we have set before us, and the work grows larger, more important and far reaching as we approach it. This work is dependent on our door and membership fees and donations from the general public.

To aid in making our Society a self-perpetuating body, we have established an Endowment Fund to put this work on a firm basis. All bequests to our Museum should be made to the Confederate Memorial Literary Society, in charge of the Confederate Museum.

It would be quite impossible to enumerate all the articles of interest to be found here. The memorials gathered are not only interesting in themselves, but invaluable for the truth and lessons which they teach.

We have already on our "Roll of Honor" 100 volumes, all bound, with more than 15,000 certified records of our heroes. A large number of the personal papers of the Hon. Jefferson Davis are in our keeping. The catalogue will tell of other important articles.

In 1907 a Southern Historical Manuscript Commission was appointed and authorized to solicit the gift or loan of rare books and papers relating to the War between the States. The first report of this committee—"The Calendar of Confederate Papers"—has been published and consists of over 600 pages. The Southern Historical Society has recently donated its valuable collection of about 10,000 papers to the Library of the Museum. The work of cataloging and caring for the manuscripts, etc., so collected is done by the Solid South Room.

Historians in search of information can here obtain original data pertaining to this period. The United States Government has already made use of our records.

Each Confederate State is here represented by a Room, set apart in the special honor of her sons and their deeds. A Regent residing in that State is expected to collect relics, etc., and funds for the room. The Regent of the Solid South Room is a Southern woman appointed from the United States at large. A Vice-Regent (as far as possible a native of the State, but residing in Richmond) gives her personal supervision to the Room and its needs. The labor is incessant, and would be impossible, but for the fact that it is impelled by a sense of sacred love and duty.

Of the women of the Confederacy, of our brave and uncomplaining soldiers, of their great leaders, as well as of our illustrious chief, it well may be said:

"Would you see their monument, Look around."

Wm. Watts Camp No. 13

United Confederate Veterans.

ROANOKE, VA., March 15th, 1905.

DEAR SIRs:—The below resolutions are mailed you with the belief that it will meet with your approval and hearty co-operation:

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at a regular meeting of Wm. Watts Camp, United Confederate Veterans, held in their hall, April 10th, with Second Lieutenant E. T. Beall presiding:

"Whereas, It is most apparent that the surviving members of that immortal body, the Confederate States Army, are in many cases in want of employment which their physical condition will allow them to handle with credit to themselves and their employers; and,

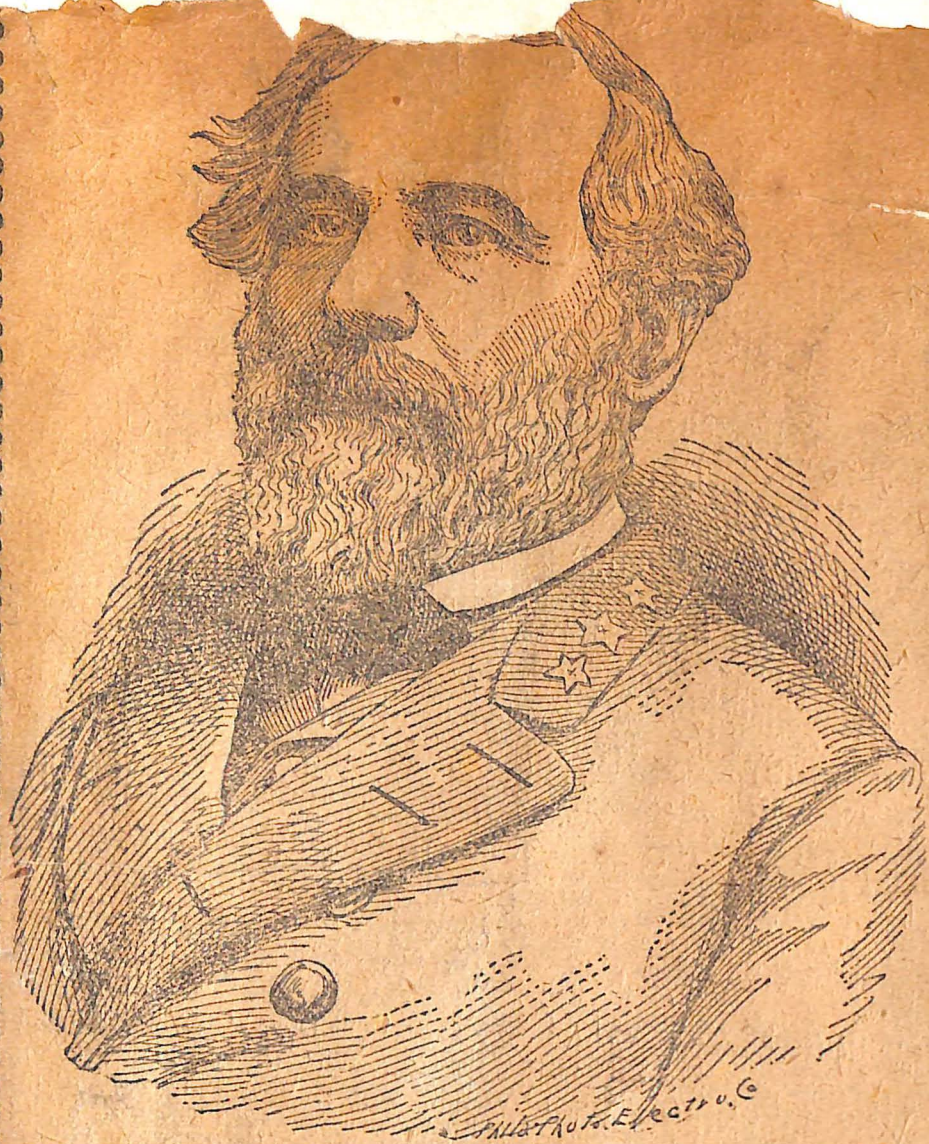

"Whereas, Many of them are incapacitated and unfit, as a result of the hardships and wounds incurred in fulfilling their duty to their beloved state, to take up new lines in the strenuous business life of this day, and yet are able, both mentally and physically, to perform, with honor and credit, the services required in many of the positions within the gift of the Virginia state and municipal government and the executive officers thereof; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Wm. Watts Camp, C. V., in convention assembled, that we should use all honorable means to induce said government and officers to give the Confederate veterans preference in filling any position within their gift; provided, of course, that the applicant is worthy and capable of properly performing the duties devolving upon the position.

"Resolved, further, That this camp shall at once appoint a committee of three, whose duty it shall be to formulate plans as to the best methods to be employed for the furtherance of this cause, and to report back to the camp at its next meeting; and a committee of one, who shall take up the matter with the other camps in this state with the view of securing their co-operation to the end desired."

Yours very truly,

S. L. CRUTE, Adjutant.

GENERAL LEE'S FAREWELL TO HIS ARMY.

In view of the near approach of the thirtieth anniversary of the surrender, we give herewith Lee's farewell to his soldiers, and follow it with his official report of the evacuation of Richmond and Petersburg and the capitulation at Appomattox on April 9, 1865.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA, }
April 10, 1865 }

After four years of arduous service, marked by unsurpassed courage and fortitude, the Army of Northern Virginia has been compelled to yield to overwhelming numbers and resources. I need not tell the survivors of so many hard-fought battles, who have remained steadfast to the last, that I have consented to this result from no distrust of them, but, feeling that valor and devotion could accomplish nothing that could compensate for the loss that would have attended the continuation of the contest, I have determined to avoid the useless sacrifice of those whose past services have endeared them to their countrymen.

By the terms of the agreement officers and men can return to their homes, and remain there until exchanged. You will take with you the satisfaction that proceeds from the consciousness of duty faithfully performed; and I earnestly pray that a merciful God will extend to you His blessing and protection.

With an increasing admiration of your constancy and devotion to your country, and a grateful remembrance of your kind and generous consideration of myself, I bid you an affectionate farewell.

R. E. LEE, General.

Dear Mrs. Crute:-

It affords me much pleasure to inform you that Wm. Watts Camp passed a Resolution at its last meeting authorizing you to take charge of the Grave Markers of deceased Veterans, that includes the raising of funds for that purpose, and to have them in charge until occasion demands them.

Your unselfish work is highly appreciated by the Camp, and we desire to express our most sincere thanks for your patriotic and commendable undertaking, and we all pray Heaven's richest blessing be your reward.

Truly yours,

C. Bilharz, Adjt.,

Wm. Watts Camp.

Feby 11th 1914.

Dear Mrs. Crute:

I am anxious to express my individual thanks and appreciation for your noble and generous undertaking. This reminds me of the many privations and hardships the good women of the South shouldered in '61 to '64.

Please enter my name on your subscription for $1.00 , and oblige

Your friend,

The Burial of Latane

The following recently appeared in Frederic J. Haskin's Questions and Answers column:

Q. I read the following in an article about Ellen Glasgow: "I like to recall her there, as I last saw her, in the glowing dusk of her library, amid the old books, the steel engraving of the Burial of Latane, and the dim fragrance of roses." Who was Latane? J. F.

A. Miss Glasgow says: "Captain William Latane, a young Virginian, was the only man lost by General J. E. B. Stuart in his passage around McClellan's army and his burial was under singularly touching circumstances."

The following prefaced the poem as printed in The Messenger:

"The next squadron moved to the front under the lamented Captain Latane, making a most brilliant and successful charge with drawn sabres upon the enemy's picked ground, and after a hotly contested hand-to-hand conflict, put him to flight, but not until the gallant captain had sealed his devotion to his native soil with his blood."—Official report of the Pamunkey expedition by General J. E. B. Stuart, C. S. A.

"Lieutenant Latane carried his brother's dead body to Mrs. Brockenbrough's plantation, an hour or two after his death. On this sad and lonely errand he met a party of Yankees, who followed him to Mrs. Brockenbrough's gate, and stopping there, told him that as soon as he had placed his brother's body in friendly hands, he must surrender himself prisoner. Mrs. Brockenbrough sent for an Episcopal clergyman to perform the funeral ceremonies, but the enemy would not permit him to pass. Then, with a few other ladies, a fair-haired little girl, her apron filled with white flowers, and a few faithful slaves who stood reverently near, a pious Virginia matron read the solemn and beautiful burial service over the cold, still form of one of the noblest gentlemen and most intrepid officers in the Confederate army. She watched the clods, heaped upon the coffin lid, then sinking on her knees, in sight and hearing of the foe, she committed his soul's welfare, and the stricken hearts he had left behind him, to the mercy of the All-Father."—Extract from private letter.

THE BURIAL OF LATANE

By John R. Thompson

The combat raged not long, but ours the day;
And through the hosts that compassed us around
Our little hand rode proudly on its way,
Leaving one gallant comrade, glory-crowned,
Unburied on the field he died to gain,
Single of all his men amid the hostile slain.

One moment on the battle's edge he stood,
Hope's halo like a helmet round his hair,
The next behind him, dabbled in his blood,
Prostrate in death, and yet in death how fair!

Even thus he passed through the red gate of strife,
From earthly crowns and palms to an immortal life.

A brother bore his body from the field
And gave it unto stranger hands that closed

The calm, blue eyes on earth forever sealed,
And tenderly the slender limbs composed;

Strangers, yet sisters, who with Mary's love,
Sat by the open tomb and weeping looked above.

A little child strewed roses on his bier,
Pale roses not more stainless than his soul,

Nor yet more fragrant than his life sincere

That blossomed with good actions, brief but whole;
The aged matron and the faithful slave

Approached with reverent feet the hero's lowly grave.

No man of God might say the burial rite

Above the "rebel"—thus declared the foe

That blanched before him in the deadly fight,

But woman's voice, in accents soft and low,

Trembling with pity, touched with pathos, read

Over his hallowed dust the ritual for the dead.

"'Tis sown in weakness, it is raised in power,"

Softly the promise floated on the air,

And the sweet breathings of the sunset hour

Came back responsive to the mourner's prayer;

Gently they laid him underneath the sod,

And left him with his fame, his country, and his God.

Let us not weep for him whose deeds endure,

So young, so brave, so beautiful he died,

As he had wished to die; the past is sure,

Whatever yet of sorrow may betide
Those who still linger on the stormy shore.

Change cannot harm him now nor fortune touch him more.

And when Virginia, leaning on her spear,

Victrix et vidua, the conflict done,
Shall raise her mailed hand to wipe the tear

That starts as she recalls each martyred son,

No prouder memory her breast shall sway

Than thine, our early-lost, lamented Latane.

Restoration Of Historical Relic Has Peculiar Interest To Woman Here

Restoration of a historical old document to J. J. Quarles, president of the Osage Bank at Fairfax, Okla., holds a peculiar interest to Mrs. Robert Lee Hurt, of 603 Allison avenue, S. W., this city, because the relic that has been found is a diploma that was issued to her uncle, Jacobus Jones Quarles, in 1851 by the University of Mississippi.

The document is interesting not only because of its historical and sentimental value to Mr. Quarles, but also because of the most unusual circumstances which caused it to be restored to the Quarles family after having been counted as lost for more than 60 years.

The diploma was issued to the elder Mr. Quarles, father of the Fairfax bank president, as first honor man of the class of 1851 at the university. It also bears the distinction of being the first diploma issued by that institution, which was founded in 1844. The diploma is said to be in a remarkably good state of preservation, considering its history, and bears the signatures of such men as L. Q. C. Lamar, Henry M. Clayton, Jacob Thompson and A. B. Longstreet, and other men famous in early Mississippi and American history. The signatures are plainly legible.

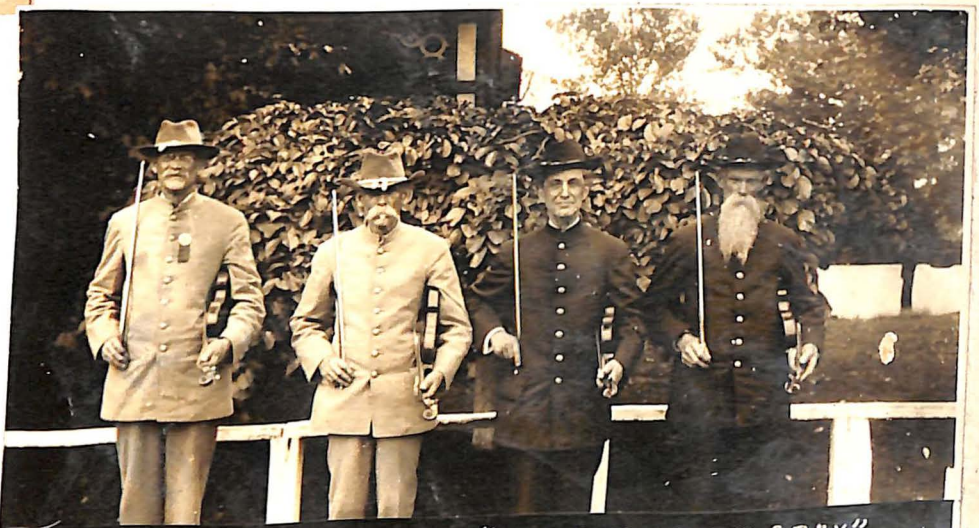

Lost during the upheaval and strife caused by the Civil War, a portion of the diploma was found by the wife of the honor graduate while cleaning up the yard after the war. She found a narrow strip of sheepskin which she recognized as a portion of the lost diploma. This narrow strip off the side of the scroll was put away with some papers and letters of Mr. Quarles and has remained in possession of the family ever since.

No trace was heard of the major portion of the document until a short time ago, when a Mr. Dooley, whose family lived at College Hill, Miss., during the Civil War, and who now reside at Fort Smith, Ark., inserted an advertisement in a Chicago newspaper in an effort to locate some relics or heirlooms of the family lost during the war.

An old Union soldier, now living at Willmet, Ill., read the advertisement and wrote Mr. Dooley that while he did not have any of the relics described in the advertisement, he did have this diploma of Mr. Quarles. He said that if Mr. Dooley happened to know of any descendants of Jacobus Quarles who were now living, and would supply him with their address, he would forward the diploma to them.

Mr. Dooley turned the letter over to R. W. Quarles, of Van Buren, Ark., a brother of J. J. Quarles, of Oklahoma, who immediately wrote requesting that the diploma be sent him. The veteran at Willmet, who is now almost 90 years old, complied with the request, and wrote by way of explanation that on the march of Grant's army toward Vicksburg in 1863, they encamped at College Hill, Miss., and during the night, what he described as a terrific hurricane flattened their tents and the next morning while searching for some of his possessions which had been blown away, he found this diploma and had kept it in his possession as a souvenir of the occasion, not knowing the person to whom it belonged.

Mrs. Hurt said that Jacobus Quarles afterward held a chair at the University of Mississippi. He married Sarah Buford, sister of the late Captain Thomas P. Buford, of Roanoke, father of Mrs. Hurt. After graduating at the University of Mississippi, Captain Buford joined a company of university men and went to war, as did his three brothers. It was while General Sherman and his men were on a march to the South that they made their headquarters at the home of Colonel G. W. Buford, father of Captain Buford, at College Hill, Miss., for about ten days, occupying part of the mansion and the surrounding grove. On a Sunday a portion of Grant's army, who were camping a few miles away, held a memorable barbecue with Sherman's men, and that night the hurricane referred to in the Quarles matter occurred. Mrs. Hurt has learned from a perusal of Captain Buford's diary.

THE OLD SOLDIER FIDDERS, "THE BLUE AND THE GRAY" WHO ACTUALLY SERVED IN THE OPPOSING ARMIES DURING THE CIVIL WAR. FROM 1862 TO 1863.

Dear friend,

I would like you to help me in getting the State Pension. I can't get in touch with D. M. Armstrong as his phone has been disconnected. My husband was a member of the Camp of Veterans, and you always kept in touch with him. The camp was named for General Early, and I would like to know where all the head-quarters now, and how many veterans here we, and if any are living, who know Gen Green who lost his arm at the age of eighteen yrs old. I would thank you very much to let me hear from you. My phone number is 4073 R. and house number 364 Washington. I would like so much to talk with you.

HISTORY OF THE WILLIAM WATTS
CHAPTER OF THE U.D.C.

When it became my duty, as our historian, to write a history of The William Watts Chapter U.D.C., how true I found the sentiment of this motto:

"Love Makes Memory Eternal!"

On May 26, 1891, a group of Confederate Veterans assembled to form a camp, and they appointed a committee of five to select a name for it. Judge H.T. Parrish, C.C. Talliaferro, Major A. L. Pitzer, Capt. Wm H. Trent and Col. Thos Lewis were chosen. The five men appointed decided on the following name:

The William Watts Camp of Confederate Veterans

in memory of Col. William Watts of Roanoke county. December 13, 1892 the veterans considered forming an auxiliary to the camp, finally taking the form of a motion which was unanimously carried. Later in 1895 this auxiliary became "The William Watts Chapter U.D.C."

On the 2nd day of June 1904, this chapter was reorganized and Mrs Henry W. Gray became the first president. She served until 1905, since which time the Chapter has had the following presidents:

Mrs J. Allen Watts.....1905-6
Mrs N.H. Hairston.....1906-7
Mrs S.J. Evans.....1907-8 ✕
Mrs H.T. Parrish.....1909-10
Mrs S.J. Evans.....1910-12 ✕
Mrs John W. Sherman.....1912-13
Mrs De Los Thomas..... 1913-14 ✕
Mrs C.S. Gookin.....1914-15
Mrs N.H. Hairston.....1915-16
Mrs Mercer Hartman.....1916-18
Mrs E.L. Keyser.....1918-20
Mrs J.F. Armentrout.....1920-22
Mrs C.R. Williams.....1922-23
Mrs M.J. Patsel.....1923-25
Mrs D.W. Hess1925-27
Mrs Jas. B. Morgan.....1927-28
Mrs R.H. Dyer.....1928-29

Members of the William Watts Chapter who have been State officers are as follows:

Miss Elvire Jones State Registrar ✕
1905-06-07.
Mrs N.H. Hairston State Custodian
1917-18-19
Mrs C.R. Williams State Treasurer
1923-24-25
Mrs M.J. Patsel State Custodian
1925-26-27.

Mrs N.H. Hairston and Mrs Mercer Hartman served two years each, as District Chairman, and Mrs Hairston served two years (including the year 1924) on the Educational Committee.

In this history, as in all history, the names of the leaders must stand out, yet how futile would have been their efforts without the unity and cooperation of each member of the Chapter. Our love for "The Cause"; our ability to catch the vision, and our willingness to say "Ready" when called upon has made possible the following facts and events.

An outstanding custom of the Chapter down thru the years has been the serving of a dinner to the Veterans as a Lee Jackson birthday celebration. This has been a time of stirring addresses a time when tales have been retold, and incidents relating to the beloved leaders recalled, intermingled always with the Southern songs and music so dear to the Veteran's heart.

Feeling that any honor or credit given to our members belongs to and becomes a part of our Chapter, I mention the following: Through the work of Mrs DeW. Hess as historian, our chapter received recognition from the State for the best historical work done that year. She visited every school in the city and placed there in a framed copy of the poem "In Old Virginia". A prize was given Mrs Hess by Miss Annie Mann of Petersburg, State Historian, at the convention held there in October, 1925. Also Mrs Hess, when our president, was presented with a gold Stone Mountain Medal. She was the first woman in Virginia or in the South to have her name enrolled on the memory book of Stone Mountain.

Three members of our chapter---Mrs E.L. Keyser, Mrs M.J. Patsel, and Mrs S.L. Crute were made honorary members of "The Immortal Six Hundred". This is an honor rarely bestowed on a woman.

Mrs. M.J. Patsel has been a member of our Chapter for eighteen years and in all that time has been absent from only one meeting, and at that time she was out of the city attending a U.D.C. Convention. The following report was read from our Chapter at the Fourth Annual Convention of the Virginia Division, which met in Wythville in October, 1906 two years after our Chapter was reorganized:

This Chapter has contributed to the Jubal Early Monument fund at Rocky Mount Virginia; to the Appomattox Monument fund for preserving the home of Stonewall Jackson at Lexington, Virginia, and to the fund for erecting a memorial window to Stonewall Jackson by the colored Presbyterian Church".

In July 1907, Mrs H.N. Hairston was appointed by the State President as one of the hostesses at the Jamestown Exposition.

ner, the Chapter presented to the camp a new banner that had been made by a committee of ladies, headed by Mrs H.N. Hairston. The banner was presented by the Rev. J.T.Hacker, and accepted by Capt. Elan for the Camp.

In 1913, a brilliant reception and ball was given at Mountain Park Pavilion in September by the Sons and Veterans, complimentary to the delegates to the State Convention, meeting here at that time. In this year, also, the William Watts Junior Chapter was organized on the sixth floor of the McBain Building, with Mrs John W. Sherman as President, and Mrs J.W.Hodges Director.

In 1916, the daughters had made a handsome new flag to be used at the reunion in Norfolk. The committee that made this flag was headed by Mrs S.L. Crute.

Our Chapter was hostess for the brilliant Military Ball given at the Eagle Home in 1917. This was complimentary to all officers and members of the Second Virginia Regiment and to all soldiers, sailors and recruits in the city. We were the first Chapter to entertain the State Convention during the World War.

Our Chapter members bought thousands of dollars of War Stamps and Liberty Bonds during the period of the World War. Later, we presented to the city a white silk flag with a gold star in the center. This flag was framed and given in memory of the boys who made the supreme sacrifice, in the World War. It was presented by Mrs Henry Dudley, Chapter Historian, at exercises held in the City Auditorium. This flag now hangs with the D.A.R. flag on the second floor of the Municipal Building.

A telegram of sympathy was sent to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson during the illness of ex-president Wilson, and reached her the day before he died. A telegram was also sent to Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge at the time of the death of their son, Calvin, Jr. Both of these telegrams being duly acknowledged. Our Chapter has contributed to Shiloh and Arlington Monuments, presented to Lee Junior High School a large and handsome picture of Gen Robert E. Lee; presented to the Jackson Junior High School a large picture of Gen. Stone wall Jackson and also a framed picture of the Jackson Memorial Window, the latter in memory of Capt. Samuel Lamkin Crute. We also secured the acceptance of a Confederate Flag, which was placed in Park Street School.

It was through the suggestion of one of our Chapter members that the "Convention Fund" became a reality. With Mrs T.B.Jeffress as chairman our Chapter has raised liberal contributions for Catawba, the State Sanitorium near Salem.

Our Chapter has secured the State Scholarships to the following schools;

National Business College....	$100.00
Cook's Business " "	100.00
Massanutten Military Academy,	75.00
Emory and Henry College	90.00
Roanoke College	75.00
Blackstone Military Academy	100.00

and two Academies for girls at Blackstone. The first Woodrow Wilson scholarship was secured for J. Summerfield Andrews through the William Watts Chapter.

A contribution from our Chapter is sent each year to Camp Chase Cemetery at Columbus, Ohio. We also did our part in helping to restore the historic Old Falls Church at Falls Church, Virginia and we contributed toward the restoration of The Old Arsenal at Selma Alabama, which is now a memorial. We have also contributed more liberally than any one other chapter in the state to the Lee Mausoleum in Lexington, Virginia.

Hundreds of pensions for the veterans and widows have been secured through The William Watts Chapter.

A repection celebrating the 33rd Anniversary of the founding in Roanoke of the William Watts Chapter, U.D.C. was given on June 18, 1928.

On October 25, 1928 the many historic events which have occurred in our section, were forcibly brought to mind by the impressive ceremonies in connection with the unveiling of a stone marker, erected to the memory of Gen. Robert E. Lee. This marker is placed on the Lee Highway between Roanoke and Salem and was erected by The William Watts Chapter of Roanoke, Va.; the Southern Cross Chapter of Salem, Va.; and the Roanoke Chapter of Roanoke, Va. United Daughters of the Confederacy.

This glimpse into the past shows that much has been accomplished, but still our work is not completed. "The Boys in Gray" are rapidly answering the last roll call, but still we carry on!

In closing I quote a poem taken from the last issue of "The Confederate Veteran" March 1929

"The Gates of Time swing wide to-day
And through them march the boys in gray
Faithful, prayerful, brave and old
With loyal minds and hearts of gold
And through the midst of tears, we pray
God keep them all who wore the gray."

Dear Mrs. Curte.

I want to write & thank the U. W. C. & you especially for your kind thoughts of me since my dear brother Mr. Dickinson has passed on who was such a loyal member of the William Wats Chapter & who while able enjoyed meeting with the Chapter so much makes it seem very dear to me & I only wish I was able to meet with you all but owing to Rheumatic troubles I have to take the best care of my self especially in damp cold weather & am not able to take much exercise by walking at any time on account of stiffness but always remember my heart is with you & I love the Chapter as my brother did & only wish that I could be with you regularly.

Very Lovingly.

My birthday card was so sweet & appropriate sorry I have been so long expressing thanks.

Thursday Oct. 15th 1931.

My dear Mrs. Crite;

You will never have the pleasure, in this world, of sending as much sunshine and happiness in one little envelope as was in that precious one you sent to me in the name of my beloved U. D. C. Chapter. I know you'll get a crown plum full of jewels up yonder for your thoughtfulness of others here upon earth. May God spare you to keep up such wonderful work in sharing, helping and cheering - the old world never needed it as badly as it does today. I am glad to say that I am up and around now and hope to be with you at the next meeting. With prayers for your health and happiness and each and every member of the William Watts Chapter I am faithfully yours in the work of love and memory for the boys who wore the gray.

Dear Mrs. Crute:

It is a long time since Sept. 21st to acknowledge your gracious remembrance of my birthday and your beautiful card, but almost constant absence from city and a great many pressing calls, have prevented earlier attention.

Please be assured of my grateful appreciation. What would we do if we did not have the dear Daughters to look after us. We would have sunk into oblivion long ago.

With great appreciation and as much love as you will accept

Sincerely yours,

Commander-in-Chief

My dear Madam:-

We have your notice of the death of Miss Martha Harris, who is on the roll of Confederate daughters, and beg to advise we have no law by which we can grant an allowance in the case of her funeral expenses.

In reference to the widow of Rev. W. H. Greagry, I beg to advise she was married too late to get on the pension roll. Our law requires widows under 75 years of age to have been married prior to January 1st, 1900.

I see you are still doing charitable work in your community. It is now more of a problem to extend that work than heretofore, because of hard times and strenuous conditions. We are having quite a difficult proposition in the city here to help all in need. There are several thousand destitute and helpless families here, and it is quite a strain on the more fortunate to provide in some small measure necessary aid.

I thank you for your kind Christmas wishes, and I trust you may have a very satisfactory Christmas, all things considered, and that your good cheer will radiate as usual among the less fortunate. With all good wishes, I remain

Very sincerely yours

Dear Mrs. Crute:

I take pleasure in acknowledging receipt of ^{my} beautiful birthday card from the "William Watts" Chapter U. D. C. through you. It was indeed one of the pleasant surprises of my birth anniversary and made me all the happier to know that you and your chapter joined in the felicitations and congratulations that it was my happy lot to enjoy on that occasion, from several sources. I have been wondering just how you learned that the 31st of Oct. was my birthday. It is easy to remember when once known, because I was a "Halloween" gift to my good mother, well I will not say how many years ago. You must have some psychic influence over the starry kingdom or it may be you are skilled in astrology. However, I most sincerely return my thanks for this kindly and timely remembrance, to you and the wide awake "William Watts" chapter. This is but one of the thousands of nice things the United Daughters of the Confederacy are doing to carry sunshine and cheer to many and many homes of Confederate soldiers and widows and descendants all over this State, in addition to the good work they are doing to perpetuate memories and heroic deeds of the immortal Lee and his faithful followers, and the "William Watts" chapter is doing her part in a measure highly creditable to the "Cause".

Again thanking you and your chapter,
I remain sincerely

Chief Pension Clerk.

My dear Mrs. Crute:

May I express to you my sincere thanks and deep appreciation of the beautiful service you were privileged to render to an old Confederate veteran who lives in Illinois.

May I relate briefly, because I think you would be interested, the circumstances in connection with the appeal made to you through Mrs. Paul Berger for the flags you furnished through our Chapter.

Through some unhappy chance this old Confederate veteran lost or misplaced his Confederate flag, which he prized above any of his possessions - it was impossible for him or his friends to procure one there so a friend of his, who lives across the street from him, wrote to a friend of hers in Roanoke to send the flags and get them there in time for delivery by Christmas. In her letter she related that this old gentleman was in the Battle of Lookout Mountain; that there was a spot at Lookout known as "Lulu Falls" and when ~~this man~~^{he} married and, later a little daughter came to bless his home, he named her "Lulu Falls" and while I was not informed as to that, but I rather think he made her like it - this demonstrates his memories and love for the "Lost Cause".

So Mrs. Crute, you sent with the little flags into ~~axlohely~~^{the} heart of an old Confederate veteran, radiant beams from the Christmas star of happiness and cheer. I hope it will some day be my privilege to meet with the Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, who render such services as this and keep alive the traditions and memories of the Southland.

Sincerely yours,

Elizabeth G. Holford

My Dear Mrs. Crute;

Your sweet remembrance of dear Mother, this glad Easter time, just received. you are and have been so thoughtful and sweet to her, and we both are so grateful to you for all you have done. I meant to write you when you came and I was gone, but I had misplaced your address and could not reach you.

So glad you put your address on the card to day.

Mother understood what you told her that day and thought it so sweet of you to come and tell her. I guess it will come around alright the next payment, June.

We are getting along alright, both feeling as well as we could hope for, I have some rheumatism, I am trying to overcome, I think my system has too much acid by eating too much sweets.

Chickens and garden coming along nicely, hope you can come over and spend the day with us some time. We would be so glad to have you

I belong to the Wasena Garden Club, and we are so interested in the City Home, Alms House, My first trip out there was last week, for a few minutes with Mrs. Bringham to ask some one to water some roses they had just planted so they would not die, they were at lunch, or I called it a great big dinner, and I really wanted to eat with as every thing looked good to me. I think your friend and care

Mrs. Saul was at the table, I asked Mrs. Bringham about her on the way home and she told me where she sat at the table, I wish I had known it then I would have talked to her especially.

We hope to make things real attractive to them out there soon.

Hope you and yours are well & happy.

With much love from Mother and me, Mrs. Amanda Dowdy.

Mrs S.L. Crute

My experience as a soldier in the Confederate Army is not very lengthy as I entered in service in June 1864 at the age of 17 years and was in service about 10 months.

I belonged to Co C. 3rd Va Reserve, with W.G. Ryan as Capt and Robert Preston as Col.

My services was in Southwest Va. in the Counties of Montgomery, Pulaski, Wythe, Washington and Amherst. Was in only one small engagement at Washington Salt works. Our command was at Christiansburg when Lee surrendered.

Nevertheless I learned to experience some of the hardships of army life and was quite glad when it was all over.

Hope this information of myself and Brothers may be satisfactory and of some interest to you.

Mrs. S.L. Crite Roanoke Va

I am sending you some of my experience in the Confederate Army service.

I was a member of Co. G, 14th Va Cavalry in General McCansins Brigade. Was 18 years old when I entered service. My service was in Va West Va Maryland and Pennsylvania. Was at Chambersburg Pa. when it was burned or destroyed by fire.

I was in the battles of Martinsburg, Charlestown Winchester, Kernstown, Fishers Hill, Port Republic and a number of minor engagements besides. And then was transferred to the Valley of Va to Petersburg & to Five Forks and our Brigade saved the destruction of Lynchburg from the Federal Army.

On the 1st of April 1865 was captured with 3000 prisoners and taken to Pointlookout Prison. and remained there until June 22nd and then Honorably Paroled and came home after Genl. Lee surrendered at Appomatox. of course it is natural to suppose that I became somewhat acquainted with the privations and hardships of warfare. Dont know if you can get anything much out of this jumbled up information or not.

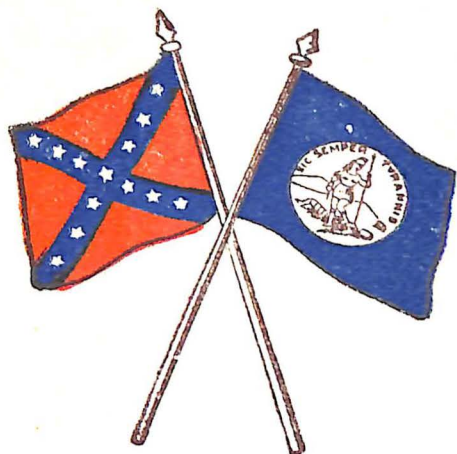

Cordially Yours Respectfully. James A. Moses.

Mu dear Comrade,

Your favor of the 8th inst to hand and contents noted. I have delayed answering the same sooner, for the reason it took me some little time to get facts in regard to the formation of ^{or} your Camp. Capt Ellett was the Adj: Genl: at the formation of your Camp when it organized. If you are looking after the Charter issued by the United Confederate Veterans; you will have to write to Genl: Wm E. Mickle, Adj: Genl: New Orleans La, I can tell you nothing about that.

On the Roster of the Grand Camp of Va, the following made by Capt: Ellett, Our late Adj: Genl:, whom I succeeded, to wit:

Name, William Watts, stationed at Roanoke, May 26th 1890

Number of Charter 13

" " Members 140

Date of election, Second Monday in May

S.V. Johnson, Commander

E.T. Beall, First Lt Commander.

J.V. Hobson, Second " :

S.L. Crute, Adjutant.

I cant tell from the Record, whether or not these are the original officers,

The Grand Commander at that time was W.P. Smith, who died some years ago, and Captain Thomas Ellett, the Adjutant General is also dead, as you know.

A new Charter will have to ~~dated~~ of this date, and signed by the Grand Commander and Adjutant General, in which the facts in regard to the loss of the Original charter can be stated.

I send you a blank form to be filled up and returned to me, and I will have it signed by the Grand Commander, and attach the seal of the Grand Camp and my own Signature. The cost of which will be one dollar.

Thank you for your kind words, which are fully reciprocated.

Truly your Comrade

My dear Adjutant,

I beg you not to think of me as indifferent to your welcomed letter - I am ~~constantly~~ or have been under the pressure of a variety of business matters, together with absence so that my Correspondence lies heavy upon me -

But I have twice read your very interesting letter and thought over the views you have stated. I congratulate you on your record as a Confederate Veteran. I had the pleasure of serving with the Army of Northern Virginia to the closing hour at Appomattox and ⁱⁿ all its Campaigns & battles, you were my comrade indeed in those grand Campaigns and we are still the same in ^{the} feeling and devotion we had then -

Your Camp is entitled to the fame it has especially in Old Virginia where it is so well known, and I will preserve your letter, and make the request that you give our Cousins my best love and best wishes for every one of them.

Let me also ask them to appoint a Committee to write in brief some sketches of the members living and dead who were or are members of the Camp; and if feasible print this history in a little pamphlet for the use of their Children, Grand Children, & all posterity. If that is not feasible, then, let the sketches be put into a type written pamphlet put up in lasting style to be deposited in the library of the Battle Abbey which we will build very soon in Richmond.

In the matter of Military Order in parades & public reviews I can only say that the Camp should control in accordance with the best Military usages. The Camp is the Unit in every formation by Divisions, Brigades & Camp, and the law of our Association prescribes the titles of every officer, indicating rank & position.
I will be glad to hear from you again.
Faithfully,
Your Cousin
Clement A. D.

I thank you very much for your letter of the 11th giving me the names and addresses of some of the family of Colonel Breckenridge, and a card will be sent them so that they can get from Miss Harris at Battle Abbey copies of the Biographic Catalogue, if they so desire.

I note you will send to her for one for your own use.

I also observe that you are doing fine U. D. C. work. There is nothing in the history of any of our people which I regard as so glorious as their Confederate record, and too much can not be done by the noble ladies to perpetuate the memory of all these dear old soldiers.

Dear Mrs Crute - I have your favor, for which I thank you. I was born in Franklin Co Va. in the year 1827 and has lived there ever since until 1912 & came to live with my daughter in Salem.

My Master Name was John Smith
My mistress Mrs Lucy Smith, my master died many years before the war, six children survived him 2 boys and 4 girls. when the war began there were 18 slaves on a plantation located near what is now known as Union Hall in Franklin Co. My master and mistress were excellent people as was another children. The slaves were treated as one family.

As far as the war was concerned I dont know very much other than what I heard my white people say about it. there was no fighting near our home, the soldiers of course passed through and took every thing they could find.

The Smiths were what we colored in those days would call "Our big folks" they lived in good homes and provided good homes for us slaves, owning good farms and cattle horses and sheep
The names of their children are as follows.

COLORED WOMAN, 105, SUCCUMBS AT SALEM

Martha Hancock, veteran Salem colored woman, died Friday evening at the home of her daughter, Betty O'Neal at 280 Water street, at the age of 105 years.

Aunt Martha was property of the Sam Smith family of Franklin county. According to the records of her family, she was born at Pen Hook on February 4, 1827. She celebrated her 105th birthday in February with a party given by her relatives.

She was the oldest living person in Salem and probably the oldest in the entire county. She will be buried near her old home in Franklin. Death was due to a paralytic stroke, suffered about a week ago.

Resolutions adopted by Wm Walth Camp
No 13 - Confederate Veterans of Roanoke Va upon the announcement of the death of Adjutant Crate, on Monday evening October 13, 1913.

Whereas, Samuel R. Crate, the faithful and efficient Adjutant of this Camp, was removed from the scene of his earthly labors by the hand of death on the 8th day of October 1913.

Therefore, Be it resolved, that in the death of Adjutant Crate this Camp has lost a most zealous, and faithful Officer, and one who was ever ready to do whatever he could for the advancement of the interest of the Camp, as a whole, and of its members individually -

Resolved - That we recognize, and gratefully acknowledge that, to his energy, zeal, and faithfulness, more than to that of any other member, is due the fact, that this Camp has kept its organization up to its present high standard.

Let us hope that now, as he has crossed over the river, and rests under the shade of the trees, the spirit of self sacrifice, so forcibly exemplified in his life may prove an inspiration to each bearing the Name, Date of Birth, and date of death of our deceased Comrade.

My dear Mrs. Crute:-

I have your kind letter of the 19th instant, and assure you to render a service for any cause in which you are interested is no trouble.

I enclose herewith a certificate copied from the Confederate war records on the service of Garland H. Brown, as a Confederate soldier, showing him to have rendered a splendid service to the end of the war.

To your other request for the name of the first veteran and the first widow who received Confederate pension in this state, I beg to advise that I could not tell you exactly which did. The regular pension law by which pensions were first paid became operative in 1888, but after the law was enacted several months intervened before pensions were paid, and in the meantime thousands of pensions were put on the roll some time in 1888. There were about 80 from your county who got on the roll that year under that act. From 1870 however, up to 1888, several wounded soldiers received from time to time some relief, which was known as commutation, but not regular pensions, as were those when the pension law became effective.

I read with pleasure the Lee Jackson dinner given by your chapter. It is a real inspiration to one who sees the interest you chapter is manifesting to make the last few remaining days of the old veterans as cheerful as conditions will permit. It is also fine that you good people in your community provided such splendid celebration on the hundredeth anniversary of Mrs. Cundiff. Let us all hope to have such a cheerful old age as this dear old lady enjoyed. It should be a great incouragement to many who are at the age of eighty and think they are too old to live.

The old veteran Mr. Burch who has celebrated his 102nd birthday, certainly has much to be thankful for in that the Good Lord has given him another valentine present by permitting him to pass another mile stone in the long voyage of life.

Yours very respectfully,

tion of Miss Maria Reed and the Waco Chapter D.D.C.

Wm. Watts Camp, U.C.V., held quite an enthusiastic meeting in the Corporation Court Hall, Monday night, the 9th inst.

General Order #4 from Grand Commander, Wm. H. Stuart, of the State, was read setting forth the time for the assembling of veterans at Norfolk, Va., for their Annual Meeting, the 16th to 18th of October inclusive.

A very cordial letter was read from Mr. R. H. Sixton, Director of Congresses and special wants, of the Jamestown Exposition, advising us that the 18th of October had been scheduled as "Confederate Day", and that he would take the liberty to call it "Roanoke Day" and assuring us that the ceremonies and attractions on that date will provide the proper incentive for an immense aggregation.

In compliance with instructions from the Grand Adjt., J. V. Bidgood, the Camp proceeded to elect delegates to the Grand Camp.

The following comrades were placed in nomination and elected by acclamation, viz:-

Hon. Joel H. Cutchins, W. S. Blanton, W. J. Sales,
W. F. Allison, J. B. Elliott, Int. Shiff

On motion each delegate will appoint his own alternate.

Col. Lewis informed the Camp that he was in receipt of a letter from Rev. Tinsley stating that he had met a lady from Cincinnati, who informed him, she had seen a confederate flag in that city with the inscription "Ploutz Guards, Va." on it. The owners are desirous of returning this to any survivor who may have followed it during the war.

The following certificates of eligibility for a Cross of Honor were presented to the Camp and ordered to be authenticated:-

Gentlemen--

I have the pleasure of announcing that at the celebration of Gen. R. E. Lee's birthday, on the evening of January 19th,, Major J. Ogden Murray, secretary of the "Immortal Six Hundred," will make an address, thirty crosses of honor will be presented, and a musical program will be rendered. It is very much desired that all members of your camp and all Confederate veterans of this city, shall be present, and bring their families and friends. The Confederate organizations of Salem will unite with us.

The place of holding the celebration will be announced in all the daily papers.

Elvira Jones, Chm'n. U. D. C.

The regular order of business having been dispensed with, the Commander introduced to the Camp our distinguished visitor, Maj. J. Ogden Murray, Inspector Gen'l of the 7th Congressional District of Veterans, and one of the immortal Six Hundred, who favored us with an address replete with authentic incidents of the immemorable past.

A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the Major and a special promise requested that we should hear from him again at an early date.

After these interesting exercises the Camp adjourned.

Dear Mrs. Crute,

I have not had a message for a long time that gave me more appreciation than your letter in regard to the Teachers Pension. Your interest in me and my Mother is genuine, Nothing could have been sweeter in you than letting me know about it. And tho I had read it even before breakfast the day it came out, for I felt I would have to take the paper as I had given up phone, and milk and ice, only when we just could not do without it and I felt it was due me to take a paper, and it was the least expense of them all. So that was how I happened to see it, yet I appreciate you letting me know about it just as much as if I had not known it until your letter came, thank you dear, for your thoughtfulness and love.

Mother and I are about the same as when you were here, she has been out on the porch these lovely days and it has helped her so much, the dear neighbors come in and talk to her when I am out, for I have been so busy since you were here doing outside work.

I guess I am too smart and will get much of my work to do over, but I just had to do some planting in the garden, lettuce, beans, peas, radishes, kale and mustard for salad, then the yard had to have some work too, I am just so tired at nights I can not sleep.

I did some grafting and spraying of trees which is such hard work. But I am about thru now and can rest, only the house work the rest of the week. I must be nervous, as I can not write at all it seems. Hope you and yours are well, and that you will call to see us some time again. With best wishes and love from us both,
Mrs. Amanda Dowdy & Mother, Mrs. Eliza Jane Caldwell.

Your very kind favor of the 15th inst to hand. I thank you for it, and the paper excerpts enclosed. I will return these to you if so desired; if not will file them with the rollof Comrade Crute's old Company.

You and your Mother have my heartfelt sympathy. It is hard to say Thy will be done; yet we must remember, God's ways are not ours and that He does all things well, and for the good of His Children. We can not see so now, but There is a blessed hope beyond this land of woe, where trials never come and tears of sorrow flow". Try to look on this affliction as your dear Father would have you do.

My dear Mrs. Crute:

In reply to your letter of the 14th instant, in behalf of Mrs. James Rain Kirkpatrick, I beg to advise if her husband was an enlisted Confederate soldier and detailed to make tents, or detailed to any other service in the Confederate Army, she would be entitled to a pension. I feel sure this is going to be right hard matter to prove by the records, on this vague information.

I am sending herewith a blank, in the event she chooses to make application. It will be necessary for her to get all of the information she can to prove that her husband was enlisted in some branch of the Confederate Army. I hope she may be able to establish her right to a pension.

I am glad to know you are feeling fine. I am doing very nicely myself, after some spells of indisposition last winter.

You are quite an apt scholar in your first lesson in typing. This will be of considerable service to you in your work.

My Dear Mrs Crute

Several times

Since coming to live in the country I have had occasion to regret the mode. The Newspapers are all right in a way, but many secrets transpire between their publications. My dear friend - your lamented husband - had passed away several hours before the "Roanoke Times" reached me. Not only that but our horse had been driven away by the family, leaving my only way to attend the funeral by walking over two miles to the car line, and at that time I was not well enough to risk the walk.

I am well aware of the host of genuine, sorrowing friends who were with you on that sad occasion, but I pretend to say that this death has made me sad indeed. True, I had not known Capt Crute so long and intimately as scores of other of his friends, but if I was ever tenderly, yea, affectionately drawn towards one noble soul it was in the case of your dear, lamented companion—God bless him. Would that I could have known and been with him more. His life and gentle words were an inspiration—yes, a positive benediction to me.

To you, my dear Mrs Crute, let me say that you must not be cash down the wounded amid the carnage. He was

How could any woman do more than you have done to help and brighten the life of her companions? Your friends and neighbors know this; therefore, let them cheer and sustain you.

And to the dear children, let me add that, they can ever refer with infinite pride because of such a Father. Their love for each other was no doubt, reciprocal.

Perhaps I am selfish but I feel the loss of my friend in many ways. I recall his pleasant, earnest smile whenever I met him, and he was ever ready to suggest some plan by which to help his old comrades. But where shall I now turn? No doubt his successor is a good man and allright, but I shall never feel at home in the camp again—no, never, and I pray that when I am called to "go over the river" that I may meet our comrade. Of his safety I have no doubt.

I fully realize that, in this, your deepest hour of grief, I am incapable of soothing your sad heart, but I can point you to one and one only—who can and will, be near and dear in every hour of life here and hereafter. Let us all be ready to take the hand of your loved one—a man after God's own heart—in love for the now lonely little family,

DR. HENRY VINCENT GRAY.

Dr. Henry V. Gray was born at the "Homestead", Bedford County, Va., July 28, 1839; and died in Washington, D. C. while under treatment, July 15, 1894.

Dr. Gray received his academic education at Piedmont Institute and Westwood Military School, Virginia. He studied medicine at the University of Virginia and Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, where he was one of the three hundred students who, under the leadership of a cool-headed and great man, Hunter McGuire, made the exodus with sorrowing hearts back to Virginia (Virginia furnished a chartered train for the return of these students) and entered the Virginia Medical College at Richmond. He took his degree in 1860 with the other students, who would have taken their degree at Jefferson Medical College had they not been forced to leave Philadelphia.

In 1861 Dr. Gray passed an examination for the position of assistant surgeon in the Confederate army; and in October, 1861, he was ordered to the Chimborazo Hospital at Richmond. He was afterwards sent to the 13th Louisiana and 21st Mississippi Infantry, and ordered to report to General Beauregard at the battle of First Manassas. He was there with the Polish Brigade, under General Zollicoffer, and the Louisiana Tigers, commanded by Major Wheat. The Tigers wore the Zouave uniform made of blue and white bedticking and carried cutlasses and short guns.

Dr. Gray remained with these regiments when in winter quarters at Manassas and Centerville. He was with the 13th Louisiana when in sight of Washington City, and was in the battle of Yorktown and Williamsburg. At the battle of Seven Pines he was assigned to Gen. Stephen D. Lee, Alexander's Battalion of Artillery, Pickett's Division. Just before this, in the Seven Days' Fight around Richmond, he was ordered to report to Maj. Tyler Jordan and Lieut. Col. Frank Huger's command. He was at the battle of Seven Pines, June 1, 1862, when Gen Joseph E. Johnston was wounded and Gen Robert E. Lee was made commander in chief. Dr. Gray was regarded as one of the most skillful surgeons in the army, and for meritorious conduct in the battle of Sharpsburg he was recommended by the Army Medical Board for promotion, and was made surgeon with the rank of major on January 14, 1864.

Dr. Gray went with Lee's army into Maryland. He climbed Cemetery Hill at Gettysburg and aided the wounded amid the carnage. He was with his command at Richmond and Petersburg and at Appamattox, and he told that while the men were in line waiting for Lee's farewell each soldier who could took a sprig of the apple tree, when a wary, worn, and starving private asked if they wished to celebrate their own defeat. #2- Dr. Henry Vincent Gray-

In 1866 Dr. Gray married Miss Edmonia Woltz, of Fincastle, Va., and returned to Philadelphia to take a post-graduate course. He was then elected physician to the Jefferson "Lying-in Hospital", where he remained a year. In 1867 he returned to Salem, Va., and was appointed lecturer of anatomy at Roanoke College. In 1868 he was elected professor of physiology and anatomy, this chair being created for him. He remained in this position for several years, practicing within the college and the town of Salem. He then re-moved to Dallas, Texas, but, the climate disagreeing with him, he returned to Virginia and was induced to locate at Bristol, where he remained a number of years until appointed surgeon for the Norfolk and Western Railroad at Pocahontas, Va., when tunnels were being built by that road. He removed to Roanoke, Va., then in its infancy. By appointment of Governor Cameron he was made coroner, which position he held until his death.

Dr. Gray was honored as a citizen and noted for his integrity of Character. As a physician he stood deservedly high. He was quick in decision, fertile in resources, a persistent worker, and, notwithstanding that for seven years before his death he was an invalid, he persisted in service almost to the end. He dictated a great many valuable contributions to medical literature. His ideas were unique and often in advance of the time, but since his death they have been perfected. Dr. Gray was a Fellow of the Medical Society of Virginia from 1889, a Mason, and an active member of the Knights of Pythias, and it was by these friends that he was laid to rest with gentle hands.

Record of A. P. H. Walker

Albert Pinckney Hughston Walker was the son of the Rev. Newton Pinckney Walker (1816-1861), and his wife ~~Meth~~ Martha Louisa Hughston (1820-1900), both of whom were natives of Spartanburg District, South Carolina.

Mrs. Walker was a grand-daughter of John Huston (His Children changed the spelling of the name to Hughston), who took part in the Battles of King's Mountain, Cowpens, Musgrove Mill, and Cedar Spring, S. C.

The Reverend Newton Pinckney Walker, son of John and Sabrah Walker, founded, in 1849, the South Carolina School for the Deaf and Blind, at Cedar Spring, S. C. He was a scholar, philanthropist, and a noble and good man. He was taken away in the prime of his life and usefulness.

Besides four daughters, he had two sons, Captain (Dr.) Newton Farmer Walker and Albert P. H. Walker, both of whom served in the Confederate Army. Dr. N. F. Walker was a Captain of Co. K., 5th S. C. Volunteers. Albert (Al) P. H. Walker was born on April 1, 1847, near Hobbysville, Spartanburg County, South Carolina. He died at the home of one of his daughters (Mrs. James B. Morgan, 358 Woods Ave., S. W.?, Roanoke, Virginia), on Sunday, September 9, 1928.

When Albert Walker was two years old his family moved to Cedar Spring, and lived in the School above mentioned. He learned the sign language and was often mistaken for a mute in a group of children talking in the sign language. Later he went to a school by a spring at the foot of a big cedar tree, hence the name Cedar Spring. He and his brother Newton were sent after that to old St. John's Classical Academy, which was four miles away and it was located in Spartanburg, S. C. Then Newton went to South Carolina College (now called University of South Carolina) and Albert was sent to the Arsenal in Columbia, S. C., which was then a branch of the Citadel, of Charleston, S. C. (It was later called the South Carolina Military Academy.)

Albert's class was taken from school to military duty at Mt. Pleasant, S. C.

In 1863, Albert joined the "Spartan Rangers", under Captain W. T. Wilkins. He was later transferred to the 1st S. C. Cavalry, Captain W. T. Wilkins, Robertson's Brigade, Colcock's Regiment. He took part in a few small engagements along the coast of South Carolina, among them, the Battles at Grahamville and Coosahatchie. They were moved to Adams Run, Charleston, Kingstree, Cheraw, and to Sumter, all in South Carolina.

At Sumter, S. C., he was stricken with typhoid fever, and was put in an old Church, which was used as a Hospital. The night there amid the groans and the suffering of his comrades was the most miserable of his life, he said. The following morning, the saint Mrs. Adkins, the wife of an officer on a blockade-runner from Charleston, S. C. to Nassau, the Bahama Islands, went to that Church and chose him to take to her home. There she cared for him as tenderly as if he had been her own child, from December, 1864, until March, 1865.

On March 17, 1865, he was issued a sixty (60) day's furlough by Dr. W. H. Huger, Senior Surgeon Board of Examiners, at Sumter, S. C.

Albert traded his gun and some old clothes for enough Confederate money to pay his way home. He went by train from Sumter to Camden, S. C. At Camden, he hired a buggy for one day. Then he walked forty (40) miles over General Sherman's path. It took him five days to cross that trail. Till finally he reached Shelton, S. C., where the bridge had been burnt to keep back Sherman's Army. Here, he and the train-conductor, Mr. Powell, ferried over the Broad River to get on the train again. That train took him within one mile of his home. "Ole" Aunt Mammy Tilda, who had boarded the train at Jonesville, S. C., had recognized "Mars Al". She hugged him over and over.

She made him sit down and eat her ginger-bread from her basket. "Al" said that was the best meal he had eaten since he had left home. She helped him off at Cedar Spring Station, and had him lean on her arm for the walk of a mile to his home, which was in the Institution for the Deaf and Blind. When they reached home, she told him to sit in the "big" parlor till she told "Ole Missus" that "company" wanted to see her. She soon returned the Mother to see her Son, of whom nothing had been heard since December, when he was on his way to the Hospital. The Mother was too overcome to speak for a while, and had thought he might be dead.

Before Albert's furlough expired, the "War Between the States" had closed. Consequently that Furlough was his prized Souvenir of the War. He had it framed in double-glass, so that both sides could be read. He was always very proud that he, although a boy only eighteen (18) years old, had served about eighteen (18) months in the service of the Confederate States Army.

Roanoke, Virginia,
September 5, 1930.

Col. William Watts.

Col. William Watts was born at Flat Creek, the family residence in Campbell county, Dec. 20th. 1817. He graduated in law at the University of Virginia in 1842 having previously graduated in medicine at the same institution. Soon after he started the practice of law at Salem, Va. In October 1850 he married Mary Allen, daughter of Judge John James Allen, President of the Court of Appeals. She lived but a few years after her marriage, leaving one son, John Allen Watts. Col. Watts commenced the practice of law in 1842 and from the first entrance into public life took the highest rank among the lawyers of the day. There was an elevated tone and bearing about his practice and at all times a contempt for any methods that were mean and base. The same high standards distinguished Col. Watts in other walks of life. His business habits and capacity were of the highest order. When the Exchange Bank of Salem was organized in the year 1850 it was with the express understanding that Col. Watts was to be it's President and he conducted it's affairs with marked ability and prudence up to the time of his entering the Confederate Service. In 1861.

Col. Watts army record was also a highly honorable one. He enlisted at Salem Virginia in a Company known as the Roanoke Grays, Mar. 1861. This Company joined the 28th. Virginia regiment at Lynchburg in April of the same year. William Watts, then Lieut. of Infantry, received rapid promotion and the latter part of the war commanded the regiment as it's Colonel. The record made by the 28th. Virginia infantry is a matter of history and too great a story to be even summarized in a paper of this nature. Battle after battle they fought through, Manassas, Williamsburg, Seven Pines. Antietam Second Manassas and many others. At Gettysburg they formed part of Picket's Division which did such noble and such futile service on that day. Suffice it to say that we have much reason to be proud of that Company of Roanoke Grays that went out in '61.

After the surrender Col. Watts came back to Roanoke County and settled down to farming and the practice of law once more. We know what conditions there were to contend with in those days of reconstruction. Col. Watts not only bore his own full share of the burdens but helped to bear those of many friends and relatives. He was the most affectionate of brothers, kindest of neighbors, and most generous and human of masters. Among the loving and devoted friends that he drew around him none were more loyal than the large body of family servants who had been former slaves and for whose comfort he continued to provide as long as he lived. Col. Watts died on May 1st. 1877 in his sixty ninth year and is buried at Oaklands, the family home just outside the corporate limits of Roanoke City.

WHY I AM A MEMBER OF THE DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY
BY
Mrs. F.H.Wickes.

Next to my allegiance to Almighty God, and my humble service in his church, to spread peace on earth and good will toward men, there comes a sacred obligation to shelter, protect and nourish, our honored heroes of the South; and, if possible, make their last days represent as much of the comforts of life in their declining years as my ability can afford.

Very early in my girlhood days, I remember very distinctly how my patriotic spirit was stirred when my sainted mother would rehearse to me some of the ~~xxxxxxxxxxxx~~ trials she had to endure during the great struggle of the Civil War.

My father volunteered at the beginning of the war and joined the second Virginia Calvary, and fought under Gen. Stonwall Jackson, in every important battle until Gen. Lee surrendered at Appomattox. Leaving home, he left behind mother, and two children, almost babies, and a debt of $6000 on the farm. Instead of mourning and wringing her hands over her condition, although she had her brother, Alex-Parker, killed in battle at 7 Pines, yet, she worked courageously like a true heroine of the South/. At the end of the war, she had paid every cent of the mortgage, besides, keeping my father in fresh horses and managing a large farm.

My father served under the command of his brother--the late ^{Maj.} William Graves, who was commissioned as Colonel, just before the surrender, but owing to such a short period of time between his appointment as Colonel and the surrender, he would never allow his friends to salute ^{him} only as Major.

Many amusing, yet tragic incidents I have heard them relate when Uncle William would visit us. One in particular, I will mention, which brings out the character of the two men, and their attitude toward the cause they were fighting for. Uncle William said; "John, I have never surrendered, I am as much of a rebel as I ever was." My old sword which I fought with for 4 years is at home hanging over the mantle fire place now." Then father laughed, and replied; "Neither have I William, there hangs mine just over the clock."

It is not only our duty, but it should be a pleasure, to administer to their physical needs, and make their declining years as pleasant as possible; for many of them are needing our help, and in many cases, were it not for our organization many of these old heroes who are unable to help themselves would suffer and go to their graves unrecognized for their service of honor they rendered in those trying days of 1860 to 1865.

We owe it to them and their widows. It is their heritage. They have earned it with their blood and sacrifice for our protection in the struggle for what we thought was our rights.

Joseph M. Painter.

Joseph M. Painter, Confederate Veteran of Martinsburg, Berkeley County, Va. was a member of the 67th regiment Co. "C" General Carsons Brigade. He was detailed by General Johnston at Richmond, Va. in 1861 to go to Winchester, Va. to help make artillery for the Confederate Army where cannon wheels were made, and troops stationed. At the out-break of the War between the States, Joseph M. Painter was a member of Berkeley Border Guards, Co. "D" second Regiment, Virginia Infantry. This Company was organized Oct. 31st. 1859 and composed almost entirely of Berkeley men who volunteered their services in defence of their State. This Company was on duty during the John Brown raid at Harpers Ferry and stood guard at Charlestown during the hanging of Brown's men. This Company was first ordered into service by the Governor of Virginia to report at Harpers Ferry in 1861. It participated in all important battles fought by the famous "Stonewall Brigade" and ably represented its County. Joseph M. Painter never took the oath of allegiance.

Mary Lucinder Painter Hess (Mrs. D.W.) member of William Watts Chapter, U.D.C. Roanoke, Virginia is a daughter of Joseph M. Painter. (Miss) Audrey C. Hess is a grand-daughter of J.M. Painter and a member of William Watts Chapter U.D.C., Roanoke, Virginia.

George M. Cannaday.

Franklin Count, Virginia.

George M. Cannaday, Franklin County, Virginia, served the last two years of the Civil war, having volunteered before old enough, was in Company "F", Regiment 14, Virginia, in Lee's Army in march to Richmond, was slightly wounded at Chancellorsville, slept on frozen ground, was in many hard battles, horse shot from under him, was present at the Surrender at Appomattox. His family have in their possession his honorable discharge, and a piece of bark from tree on surrender grounds. He died on April 9th (anniversary of which date he so lovingly commemorated) 1922. His daughters Misses Thettie and Georgia Cannaday, and Mrs. T.P. Dwyer are members of the Wm. Watts Chapter of the U.D.C., Roanoke, Virginia.

Edward James Duffel.

My Father Edward James Duffel was the only son of Henry Leonard Duffel of Lynchburg, Va. and Mary A. West of Gloucester Co. Va. He was born in Lynchburg and entered the "War between the States " at the age of 22. He was a private in Co. C. Davidson's Battery 13th. Virginia .He was actively engaged in a number of Battles espically around Petersburg in the Battle of the Crater. Sargeant R.H. Doss of the same company says their Battery was next to the mine that was sprung and when they captured our lines, we were obliged to fire down on our own lines in order to hold them, and they held lines until Gen. Mahone recaptured them, and left hundreds of negroes lying between the line." Ned" as he was affectionately called by his men, did gallant fighting that day and thru out the war that he was a good man and a gallant soldier. He was promoted to Sargeant, same company and afterwards to Lieutenant.. The records at Lynchburg show him as only a sargeant but Major J. Ogden Murry Sec'y. to the Immortal 600 says he knew he was promoted to Lieutenant. After finding out I was his daughter he immediately sent an order to General Grayson at Washington D.C. and had me made a "Daughter of the Immortal 600."

Very Resp.

Wm. Watts Chapter 809.

P.S.

I joined the William Watts Chapter Feb. 1911 on my fathers record and missed one meeting in 18 years , then I was chaperone for the 2nd. Virginia Reg. at New Orleans 1923.

Capt. S.L. Crute.

I joined the William Watts Chapter June 20th 1905 on my husband's record. I had four Uncles in the "War between the States", and as wives were allowed to join on their husbands record, decided to do so. Capt. Crute entered the Confederate Army in May 1861, as a private Co. A. of the 21st. Virginia Infantry afterwards in the 18th. Va. Infantry, Col. G.E. Cabell Commanding. Honorably discharged by parole at Appomatox April 9th. 1865 at which time he held rank of Musician in the 18th. Va. Band. Previously he had been elected 1st. Lieutenant in Co. A. Wrights Battalion, afterwards elected Captain. He remained with the command until it suspended, then went to the 21st. Regiment and finally with the 18th. Regiment.

Maggie J. Crute

Wife of S.L. Crute.

Robert H. Creasey.

My grandfather, Robert H. Creasey, was chiefly responsible for my joining the Daughters of Confederacy. He is still living at the ripe old age of 85 and is very much interested in the activities of the "Daughters and Sons" of the Confederate Veterans. He lives in Roanoke and served in Company "G" 28th Virginia Regiment during the War between the States. He still enjoys entertaining his grand children by telling of his thrilling exploits as a soldier. He tells how the "Yanks" cut down piles of trees and underbrush during the battle of Seven Pines and how his regiment had to crawl over them before firing upon the enemy. His pal was captured and held prisoner during this battle.

His face lights up as he tells how Pickett and his beloved "Gen" Bob, during the battle of Gettysburg, rode among his soldiers giving a word of encouragement to those he loved.

He tells how on one occasion his regiment was "double quicked" toward Richmond, upon the receipt of the information that thousands of "Yanks" were approaching. It had been raining for a whole day and night and when the enemy was sighted his Colonel, Colonel Wm. Watts the last Colonel under whom he fought gave the command, "Turn around, fire", each side firing and running as fast as they could. This, to him, was one of the most humorous incidents of the war.

He was present at the surrender of Lee at Appomattox Court House in 1865. He relates how General Grant apologized to General Lee for not having on his uniform and not having his gun as they were ten miles away in his wagon. I am also eligible to the Daughters on my paternal side having had six great Uncles who were in service, one who served as a doctor. My grandfather entered the service, but had to return home on account of ill health. After this he always paid a certain percentage of the revenue from his crops to the Confederacy.

My grandfather, now living, often insists upon saying that the cause for which he fought and for which his brothers died was the cause of Civic Liberty and not the cause of Human Slavery.

THE WILLOW FUMP

Situated 8 miles north of Staunton on Old Valley Pike near Fort Defiance Poem written by Samuel Coleman, Co. B 51st Va. Reg. Infr.

Of the soldiers yet living I am one of the few
Some of whom wore the Gray while others the Blue. Y know
Some of you remember when both you and me
Marched down the valley by the old Willow Tree.

Many times 'neath its shade and foliage of green,
Have we drank from the spout and filled the canteen
With life giving water so sparkling and free
That gushed forth from the trunk of the Old Willow Tree.

The Soldiers in Gray, though gallantly led
Were scantily clothed and but poorly fed.
We hardly ever had to drink coffee or tea
Our only beverage being water from the Old Willow Tree.

Often the Blue would march up the valley,
Then General Jackson his troops would rally.
And from Rebel yell and shot back they would flee
Not even halting at the Old Willow Tree.

The Gray would then follow gathering up the goods
Strewn on the road, over the fields and through the woods,
Back to camp we would meet laden with trophies coffee and tea
And talk over the victory around the Old Willow Tree.

Cause of the Elated by the, Gray ever true
Though victors we were, we sometimes looked blue.
Dressed in Blue Clothing back to answer revelee
Then the Gray rags would be scattered around the Old Willow Tree.

This Old Willow Tree is now dead and gone
And where it stood is now a beautiful lawn,
Where many brave soldiers who drank at this fountain so free
Now rest under the shade of some other tree.

To the few of us who are yet in the ranks
Let us bow before God and humbly give thanks
For His mercies and blessings so bountious and free
For the blood shed for us on the Calvary, Tree.

Our march is not ended, we shall soon follow on
After other brave heroes who have already gone
And like others who followed Jackson and Lee
We shall soon drop over the river and rest under the shade of the tree.
