*Wind
over the Hill*

The wind whistles around campus destroying the careful set of a girl's hairdo.

Beaming after another touchdown, Linda Porterfield leads fans in "Hail to William Fleming."

Students catch a breath of fresh air during change of classes.

Challenging Winds Rush Over Our Hill And Whirl Us Through The Year

What whirls the leaves and spins our lives in consistent, but ever changing patterns?

What blows joy into the days in a calm, gentle way?

What tangles our hair and ruffles our clothing?

What is the menace that scatters homework papers over the campus?

What circulates and perpetuates the enthusiasm of a pep assembly?

What?

Those varied winds that whistle through the halls and whisk another year in the door and out again.

With the trumpet fanfare of autumn winds, we return to old friends and new classes. As the poplar trees on campus are bent by the winds that blow down from our hills, so do we grow under the prevailing influences. Sudden friendships are blown into our midst by amiable breezes. We are nipped and frozen by the biting north wind and the only argument available is to put on our overcoats.

Tumultuous days of another school year brings us . . .

a capful of restless wind,
a chilly draft of apprehension,
a gust of inspiration, and a blast of defeats and momentary setbacks. But it's just wind over the hill.

Keeping up with the wind,
Butch Cooke
retrieves
his runaway papers.

Weary students brave the wind while changing classes.

Revealed: Gold Mind And Winsome Spirit

It has been said, "The art of teaching is only the art of awakening the curiosity of young minds for the purpose of satisfying it afterwards."

We have in our midst a native of our city who has made a study of this art and has truly mastered it. Her wide and varied interests make her classes come alive to her students. In her twelve years at Fleming she has touched many, not only with her gift for teaching, but with her other great gift, her love of beauty which is reflected in her ability in things poetic, artistic and musical. Community and church activities are other sides of her busy life, and travel to Europe or other parts of her own country is always a part of her summer schedule.

She has given much of herself to others. We in turn make our gift to her in this 1966 Colonel—teacher of Spanish, French and history — Miss Sarah Georgia Walton.

Happiness reigns as World War I ends in Miss Sarah Walton's advanced American history class.

Miss Sarah Walton teaches the fine points of conjugation in her first year Spanish class.

Looking in on Miss Sarah Walton's
American history class, one finds events of the Civil War on their outline.

CAMPUS LIFE

Fervor and gaiety circulated as students were tossed about in the mad scramble that filled extra moments of each day. Bits of chatter and laughter drifting into the quiet concentration of classes, cavorting during school sponsored activities, and saluting those who excelled, fashioned campus life. Dances and assemblies splashed color into a routine of study. Winds of happiness, winds of excitement, sometimes even winds of disappointment encircled our individual lives and wove them into one.

Facing a dreary day, students change classes after first period.

Mr. W. Albert Coulter, principal, explains assembly procedures to homerooms over the public address system.

After being absent, Bonnie Garnett receives her admittance slip from Mrs. Virginia Mason, girls' attendance director.

Alighting from the 7:45 bus, students start toward homeroom where they run through morning procedures.

Arriving at the central office, Miss Margaret James, Mrs. Nancy Falls, and Mrs. Manie Childress sign in before homeroom period.

Campus Activities Arouse With 8 O'clock Alarm

Morning found students and teachers arriving on campus for another day. Assembling in homerooms and general education rooms, students discussed subjects ranging from an upcoming test to the last athletic event. Stirring with activity, the central office was a focal point for teachers to sign in and check their mail boxes. With the 8:00 bell, students reluctantly turned to homeroom, and the day began with announcements from the public address system. After morning business was finished, students were free to talk or study. At 8:15, the halls again became congested as the rush to first period class began and another day was under way.

Mrs. Mary Townsend and Mrs. Rebecca Thomas wait patiently for someone to pass the cream.

Ernie Hawley runs the obstacle course at the tray disposal window after he finishes lunch.

Organized Lunch Procedures Provide Spare Time For Individual Activities

Linda Turner hurries through the lunch line in order to get a seat in the cafetorium.

At midday, thoughts deviated from studies as the lunch hour rush began. Students, racing to jabber and eat during the regular thirty minutes, found themselves caught by a twenty-five minute period on assembly days. On several days, lunch periods overlapped resulting in a conglomeration of ringing bells and frenzied students. Lunch periods revolved with Smith Hall eating A, Hart Hall eating B, and Camper Hall eating C. The dairy bar was a popular place where students congregated to purchase milk and ice cream. During the latter part of the period, newly installed drink and candy machines attracted students to each general education room.

Ruth McCrory, Rick Farmer, and Jerry Hale make full use of the newly-installed drink and candy machines in Camper Hall.

Advanced Classes, Bus Trips, Publications Symbolize

Mr. James Moore lectures on mental stability to his 6th period health class.

Mrs. Odom's economic class investigates "Capitalization of a Business" at Carter Machinery.

Pam Coffey, Distributive Education student, sorts blouses while working at Sidney's.

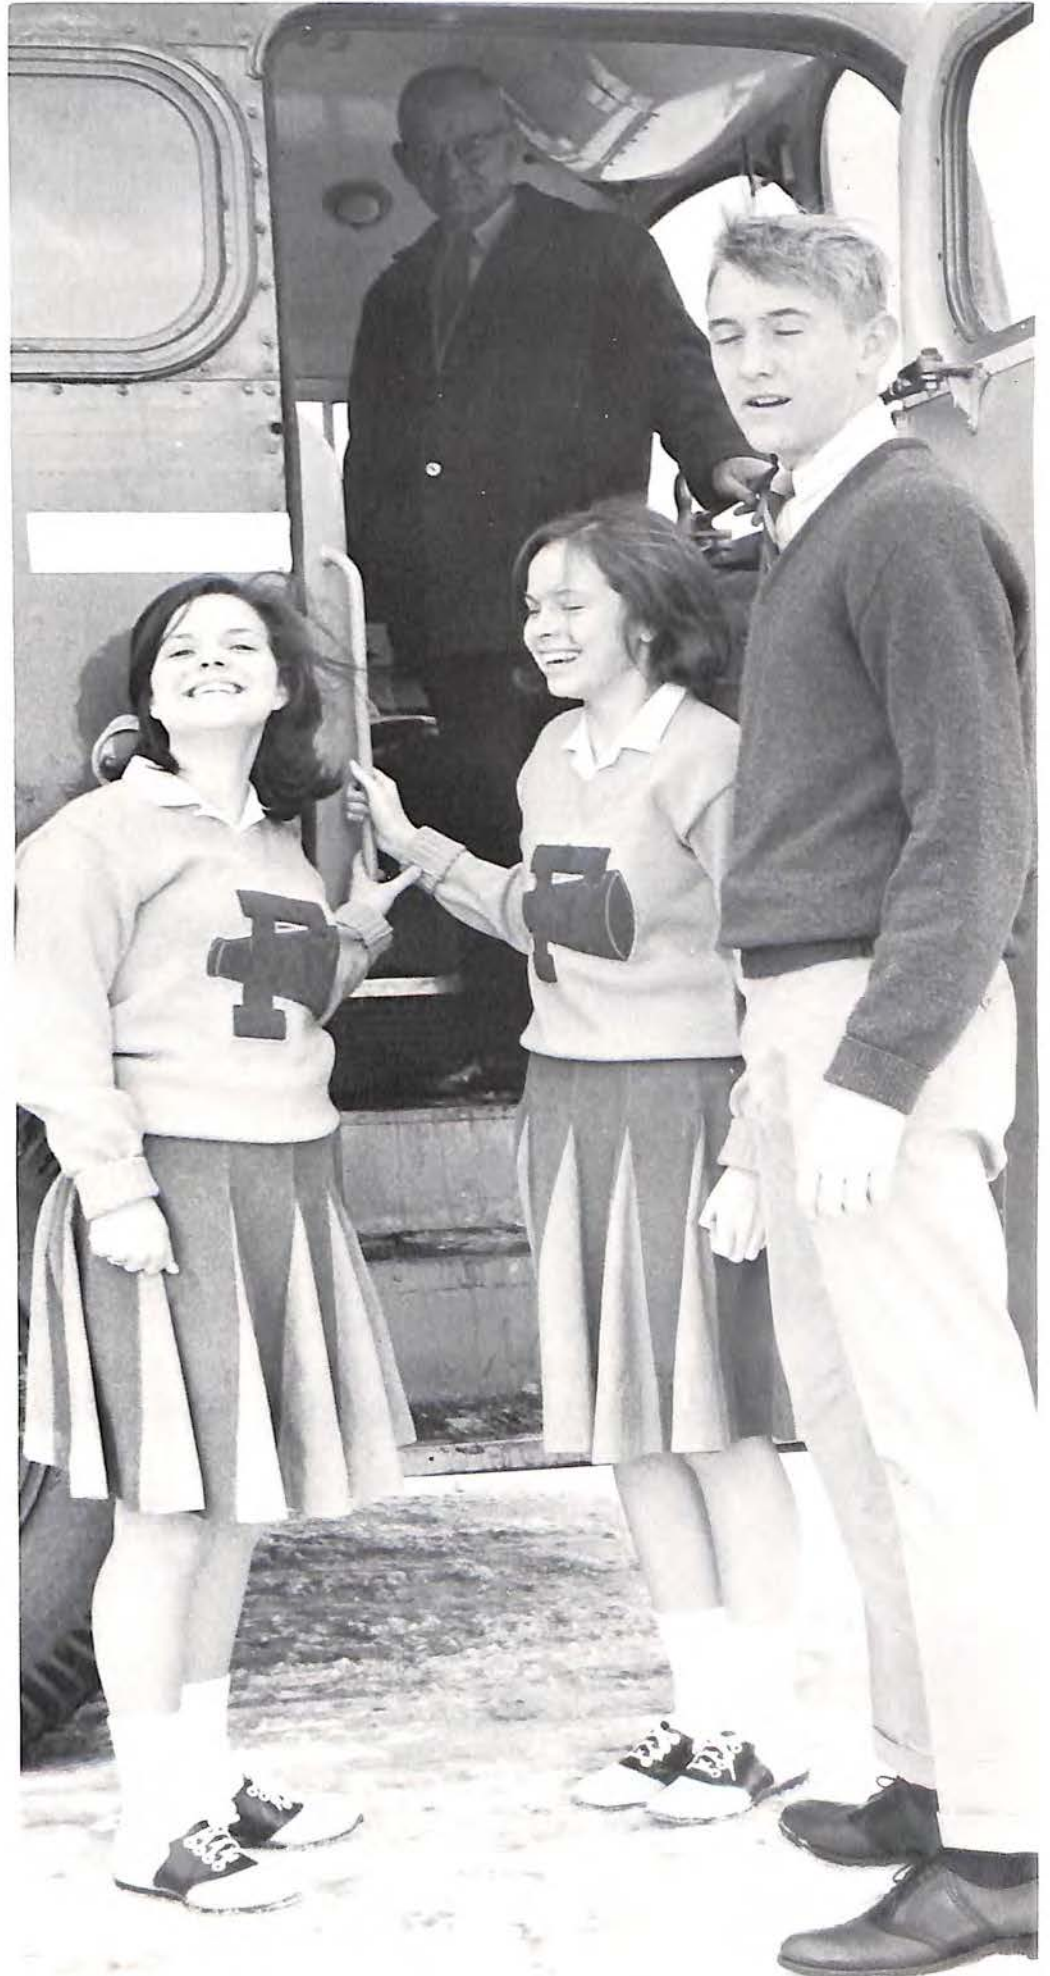

A surprised Renee Echols sorts pictures with the supervision and help of Butch Cooke and Susan Angle, Colonel staff members.

Afternoons

Special courses filled the hours after lunch. Vocational Office Training and Distributive Education students, employed through the school, left for their various jobs at 12:30. Students attended several advanced classes. Among them were advanced biology, fifth year mathematics, Shakespeare, and Landmarks in Literature. The staffs of the Colonel and the Sabre worked sixth period to produce the school publications. One end of the electives building was filled with music as the band practiced for concerts and parades. Out-of-town sports events and special trips "forced" participants to miss afternoon classes.

Debbie Taylor, Judy Hart, and Jerry Beckner are all smiles as they prepare to go to an out-of-town basketball game.

Conferences, Activities After 2:20

Performing a Key Club service, Stan Fowler and Kevin Ridenour lower the school flag at 2:20.

Butch Cooke and Linda Porterfield hurry to complete an experiment on the collection of oxygen before fifth period ends.

With the end of the day, quiet descends on a deserted campus.

Camera shy, Diane Slusher is caught going to her locker after school.

Detain Students

At the end of sixth period, some students headed for the parking lot or bus stop while others remained for participation in individual or group activities. Extra time after 2:20 was required for club meetings, make-up tests, sports, and conferences with teachers.

Staying after school on a Friday afternoon, David Shelton, editor-in-chief of the Colonel, and advisor Mr. Dean Egge, go over last minute details of the day.

During after-school hours, members of the sophomore class participate in a junior varsity football game.

Assemblies Provide Diversion, Entertainment, And Information

Assemblies dealing with various areas proved to be both informative and entertaining to the student body. Mr. Thomas Dixon, dean of Camper Hall spoke at the Thanksgiving assembly. Reverend Alvord Beardslee, Chaplain of Hollins College, brought the Easter message. The S.C.A. sponsored several assemblies, including the introduction of candidates for S. C. A. offices for 1966-67 and the installation of newly elected officers. Junior Achievement staged an assembly to promote interest and membership in its companies. Assemblies put on by the F.T.A. and gymnastics club gave individual members opportunities to perform.

Mr. Tom Dixon, dean of Camper Hall, delivers "Why Be Thankful" during Y-Teen Thanksgiving assembly.

As part of the Junior Achievement membership drive, city-county members show organization, production, and liquidation of a mythical company in a special assembly, Highlighting National Education Week, T. R. Powell, Pat Strickland, Renee Echols, and Jeanette Pillis stage classroom scenes showing the rewards of teaching to the student body.

Richard Trollinger is installed President of the S.C.A. for the 1966-67 term.

Bill Farmer exhibits his skill on the vaulting horse during the gymnastics assembly.

"Snore Wife" and Individual Talents Star In Hall

During the A.F.S. assembly, Mike Brondole exhibits his Turkish toilet to illustrate his experiences as an exchange student to Turkey.

Jerry Via receives a certificate during the Awards assembly from Mrs. Ruth Painter for winning first place in boys biological science in the City Science Fair.

Assemblies

Giving all students a chance to perform, the three halls competed for honors with their own assemblies. Camper Hall started off with a variety show, featuring Keith Drescher and Chuck Hess. "Snore Wife and Some Several Dwarts" was the literary effort offered by Hart Hall. Ray Martin's puppets emceed Smith Hall's variety show. Thespians presented scenes from the spring play in their awards assembly. The "Willies", equivalent to Hollywood's "Oscars", were also awarded to the best students in dramatics. The American Field Service Club invited Mike Brondole, a summer exchange student to Turkey, to speak at the fund drive assembly.

Hart Hall students pay their respects at Snore Wife's funeral during the Hart Hall assembly, "Snore Wife and Some Several Dwarts."

Mr. William Parker adds his talent to the Camper Hall assembly by singing "Without A Song."

Students and head cheerleader Linda St. John give support to the football team in an outdoor pep assembly.

"Hansel", "Gretel", and "Lion", Ray Martin's puppets, host the Smith Hall assembly.

Concerts, Plays, Sports

Linda Keats, Northside student, performs "The House of the Rising Sun," which won her a first place in individuals at the Fleming Hootenanny on March 19.

Lendy's is a familiar spot for Fleming students on weekends as well as week nights.

Chuck Toms, student playing with the faculty, shoots for two during the WROV-faculty game.

Events, and Dances Highlight Evening Hours

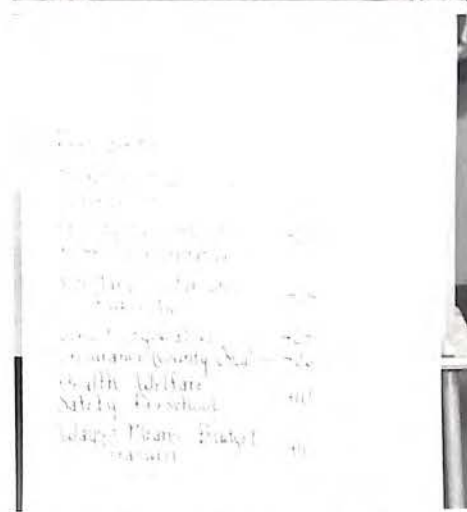

Nighttime found students working to complete homework assignments, writing term papers, watching T.V. programs, and holding marathon telephone conversations. Some clubs held night meetings, and drama, band, and choir students practiced for their various activities in the evening hours. Friday night heralded the long-awaited weekend, filled with dates, trips, dances, and plain relaxation. Basketball and football games provided needed release for students. Various organizations sponsored hops after the athletic games, and two formal dances, the Christmas Dance and the Junior-Senior Prom. Concerts and plays were supported by students and parents.

Enjoying his Christmas present from the American Field Service Club, Peter Neglén talks on the phone with his parents in Sweden.

Reverend William A. Cook, Pastor of Melrose Christian Church, leads devotions at the Roanoke Valley P.T.A. conference.

"These Precious Moments" Paces Homecoming Week

Flashes of blue and gold streaked through the halls signaling the beginning of Homecoming Week. The theme, "These Precious Moments," became the pattern for the activities as the entire week evolved into a kaleidoscope of mixed emotions. Pep week and the "best-dressed car" added a dash of the unique to the festivities. On Friday during a spirited pep assembly, Queen Brenda Ingram and her court were introduced. Folk songs by the Lamplighters preceded the traditional recognition of football players.

The night of October 15 witnessed the defeat of previously unbeaten George Wythe High School of Wytheville by a score of 13-7. Climaxing halftime ceremonies, Brenda was escorted on to the field by principal W. Albert Coulter. Cliff Phillips, S. C. A. vice-president, crowned her and Carolyn Flindell, co-head cheerleader, presented a bouquet of chrysanthemums. A Homecoming Dance with music by "The Mystics" added the finishing touch to a momentous week.

Linda St. John, Peter Neglén, Larry Mattox, and Brenda Ingram keep time to "Dixie" during the Homecoming game.

"Choose Something Like

Angela Miller adjusts her gloves as she and her date, Ronnie Martin, pose for their picture by a professional photographer in a designated area of the gym.

Mr. Lugar, custodian, and Mrs. Rebecca Thomas make last minute preparations for the refreshment table.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pittman enjoy an occasional dance with the students.

A Star'' Is Theme of Prom

Juniors, seniors and their dates dance to the music of the V.M.I. Commanders.

From 8:00 P.M. until 12:00 P.M. on May 14, 1966, the gym was the scene of the Junior-Senior Prom, "Choose Something Like a Star." Dark blue covering with silver stars enveloped the entire gym and provided the effect of a night sky. The V.M.I. Commanders furnished the musical atmosphere and during the evening, seniors enjoyed a dance especially designated for them. Couples who wanted their pictures taken found a picturesque fountain to be the perfect spot.

Robert Sweet and Judy Sisson dance under the star-studded ceiling.

Attendees of the Prom have it rough while leaving as a shower fills the air.

Fleming Students Bring Honor To Themselves and To School

On schoolwide, local, and state levels students won recognition for their families, community, and Fleming. Whether talent, knowledge, or just hard work was needed, Fleming students participated and were outstanding in various fields according to individual interests and eligibilities.

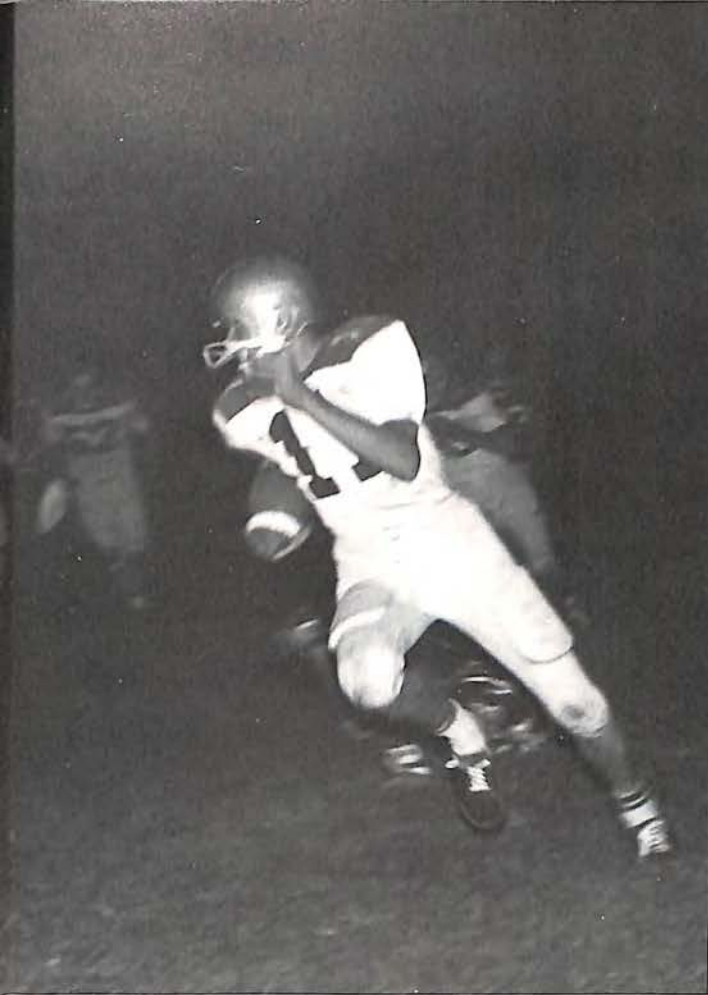

Joy Mills, winner of the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award, puts the finishing touches on a dress in home economics class.

Looking up information, Brotherhood Award winner Cliff Phillips works on a government report in the library.

State Champion in Girls' Public Speaking, Jayne Moore practices her winning speech after school in the gym.

Greg Gendron, winner of the B'nai Brith award from Fleming, looks for an opening on the football field where he was quarterback of the Fleming eleven.

Joe Berman, Westinghouse Science Talent Search Finalist, dismantles his science fair project. Joe also won the Math Award.

Various Activities Part

Mrs. Mabel Marmion assists Ann McCown, recipient of the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award, by putting on Ann's award pin.

Linda Giles, Joe Berman, Frances O'Brien, Marilyn Kinsey, David Shelton, and Rebekah Ludwig were recipients of National Merit Letters of Commendation.

Carolyn Flindell, Teen-Town emcee Fred Frelantz, and Keith Drescher appear to be happy about the program. Carolyn and Keith are Fleming's representatives.

of Every Student's Life

Fleming's Snow Princess, Brenda Jackson rides on the Snow Queen's float in the Christmas Parade.

Fleming's senior representative to the Deb Council, Brenda Ingram, won a trip to New York by accumulating the most points in Deb Council activities. Brenda was also named Miss Congeniality and first runner-up in Roanoke's Junior Miss Pageant.

STUDENTS

Vigorous winds swirled into classrooms and around the school taking students by storm. Pushing them onward to their destinations or stimulating never-ending friendships among schoolmates, turbulent gusts affected each individual in the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. Seniors completed requirements for graduation and readied themselves for college, vocational schools, or jobs. Juniors learned the ropes of organizations to assume roles of leadership and became conscious of career opportunities. Sophomores adapted to the realities of high school life, joined clubs according to their individual interests, and scheduled courses for their remaining two years.

Head sponsor Mrs. Mary Pittman and president Ronnie Massey get out the yardstick and measure for the curtain in the cafetorium.

Seniors Donate Plastic Curtains

"Our day of dependence, our long apprentices to the learning of other hands, draws to a close."* Seniors assumed greater responsibilities from the arrival of class rings in the summer to the night of graduation. Three hundred thirty-three seniors were graduated in the Class of '66.

Given special privileges, the senior class members sat in a special section during assemblies, left fourth period classes one minute early for lunch, and ate at special tables for seniors only. The class donated translucent curtains for the cafetorium as its project.

Activities which included all seniors were the Senior Banquet, an on-campus Senior Day, and the traditional graduation activities.

Doctor Beardslee Speaks to Seniors at Banquet

Seniors enjoy dessert and chatter at their own tables.

Dr. Alvord Beardslee suggests to seniors that "Morning is Glory Enough".

The 1966 Senior Banquet was held in the school cafeteria on May 19, at 6:30 P.M. A local restaurant catered the affair for the approximately 100 seniors attending. David Shelton, senior class vice-president from Camper Hall presided over the banquet. Dr. Alvord Beardslee, guest speaker, advised seniors in his talk that "Morning is Glory Enough". Ronnie Massey, senior class president, and Mrs. Mary Pittman, head sponsor, were in charge of banquet arrangements.

Senior class officers, Ronnie Massey, president; Donna Scott, secretary-treasurer, Smith Hall; Danny Webster, vice-president, Hart Hall; J. P. Walrond, vice-president, Smith Hall; David Shelton, vice-president, Camper Hall; Ann McCown, secretary-treasurer, Camper Hall; Dwan Blankenship, historian, Smith Hall; Marilyn Kinsey, historian, Camper Hall; Mrs. Mary Pittman, head sponsor; and Sherry Duke, historian, Hart Hall, make plans for Senior Day activities.

Sixty-Seven Seniors Wear Gold Tassels at Graduation Activities

Approximately 20 per cent of Fleming's second largest graduating class were awarded gold tassels instead of the usual blue at graduation. These sixty-seven honor graduates had achieved grade averages of 4.0 or better out of a possible 5.0. Twenty of these seniors had an average of 4.5 or better. On May 22, honor grads attended an outdoor tea given by the Future Teachers of America. At Commencement, Principal W. Albert Coulter recognized each honor graduate individually.

Seniors Come To Life On Special "On Campus" Day

May 17 marked Fleming's annual on-campus observation of Senior Day. Underclassmen reported at the regular time and enjoyed one hour of peace before the seniors invaded by checking in with the deans at 9:00. Informality in dress and demeanor was the keynote of the day; the grounds were dotted with blankets and sun bathers, in modest attire, of course. Some hardy souls took advantage of the perfect areas for skateboards: the walks. Highlight of the day was a "tuff" combo which provided music for the all-day dance session in the gym. At noon box lunches were served after which the seniors left to the accompaniment of blaring horns. Then relative peace settled on the campus.

As seniors approach the capping platform, Mr. Otis Kitchen keeps the gym filled with excerpts from "The Sound of Music".

Capping Assembly Held In Gym

Smith Hall seniors hurry to keep an even distance before entering the gym.

Cecelia Long is assisted into her gown by juniors Richard Trollinger and Steve Jacovitch.

William Fleming held its annual capping assembly on June 3, 1966. White clad seniors marched in formation from their respective halls to the gym. The audience rose in respect as seniors entered the gym to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," courtesy of Mr. Otis Kitchen and the organ. Mrs. June Webb then led them in singing "Alma Mater" and "Joys We Have Known." As the deans called out each seniors name, the seniors, with caps and gowns on their left arms, walked up to the platform to be capped by Mr. W. Albert Coulter. They then stepped behind a partition where junior boys assisted them in donning their robes. The boys' chorus sang "May God Smile on You" and the seniors slowly recessed, wearing caps and gowns in public for the first time.

Maddex Speaks At Baccalaureate

Three hundred thirty-three graduating seniors and their families gathered in the gym for the baccalaureate service on Sunday, June 5, 1966 at 8:00 P.M. After the processional, "God of Our Fathers," played by Mr. Alan Bostwick, Reverend Rudolph Ludwig, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, gave the invocation. The choir under the direction of Mrs. June Webb sang

"Sanctus". Reverend J. L. Maddex, pastor of Villa Heights Baptist Church delivered an inspiring message on "Truth and Freedom." Following the choirs' renditions of "Once to Every Man and Nation" and the benediction, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," the seniors recessed with mixed feelings to the strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

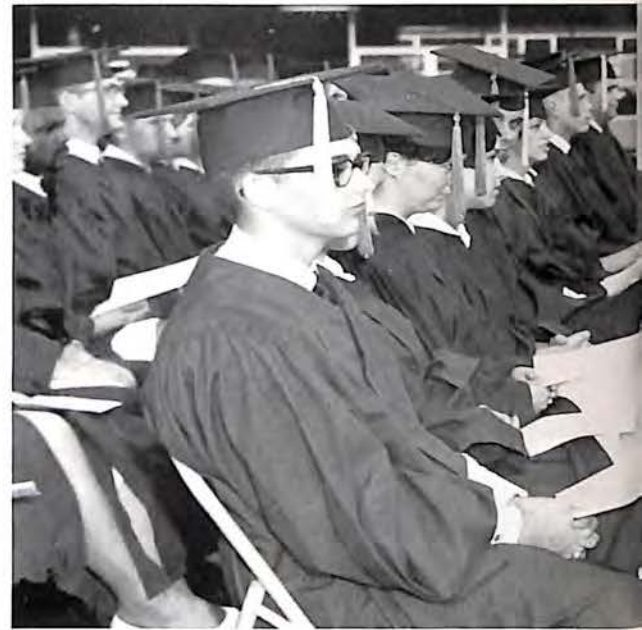

Mrs. June Webb leads the boys' chorus in singing "May God Smile on You" at the annual capping assembly.

Gerald Bailey and Diane Stout accompany the choir in singing "The Last Words of David" at graduation.

Mr. Harold Landis and Ronnie Moses place programs on the graduates' chairs just minutes after the rain stopped.

Rebekah Ludwig gives her interpretation of religion as she speaks at graduation.

Mr. W. A. Coulter Awards Three Hundred Thirty-Three Diplomas

Arriving on campus, seniors met in their home halls at 5:45 P.M. A sudden rain delayed the ceremony, scheduled for 6:30 P.M., until 7:00 P.M. To the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance", the robed seniors proceeded from the halls to their seats. The Reverend Orval S. Garber presented the invocation. Preceding Dr. E. W. Rushton's opening remarks, the Fleming Choir sang "Alma Mater" and "The Last Words of David". Giving their interpretations of the theme, "We see things as we are;

And therein lies the weakness, and the strength of this, our brooding lunar universe", were student speakers, Susan Bain, salutatorian, Joe Berman, Carolyn Flindell, Jayne Moore, Rebekah Ludwig, and valedictorian Jeanette Dodson. After introducing honor graduates and announcing scholarships, Mr. W. Albert Coulter awarded diplomas to three hundred thirty-three graduating seniors. Following benediction and the recessional, the graduates returned in caps and gowns to their halls.

Camper Hall seniors silently wait their turn to obtain their diplomas as Smith and Hart Halls go before them.

Mr. W. A. Coulter, principal, gives Fredi Hairston her diploma and a handshake before flipping her tassel from right to left, a symbol of graduation.

Mr. Tom Dixon, Dean of Camper Hall; Mr. Frank Beahm, Dean of Hart Hall; Mr. Paul Foster, Dean of Smith Hall; Mr. W. A. Coulter, principal of William Fleming High School; Dr. E. W. Rushton, Superintendent of Roanoke City Public Schools; and Rev. Orval S. Garber, principal of Melrose School; listen as senior class president Ronnie Massey introduces the student speakers.

Throughout the year, new activities and experiences swamped the junior class. In the fall, all juniors took STEP-SCAT tests. College-bound juniors took Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude tests and National Merit Achievement tests. A hop after a basketball game in February and a hootenanny in March served as money-raising projects. Under the guidance of head sponsor Mrs. Velva Sutphin, Camper Hall, and sponsors Mr. Robert LeNoir, Hart Hall, and Mrs. Maryann Ferguson, Smith Hall, juniors planned and presented the Junior-Senior Prom "Choose Something Like A Star." In May, juniors elected class officers for their senior year.

Sophomores Seek New Realms in Club Activities

Carole Angle, chairman of Hart Hall, informs candidates for S.C.A. reporter of election proceedings.

Sophomores, coming from Breckinridge and Monroe Junior High Schools, found themselves amid new surroundings and multiple opportunities. Sophomores grasped a portion of Fleming life in their acceptance of regulations and traditions. Sophomores realized new academic regions in their biology course and the English reading program. Fresh scopes in sports activities and club organization awaited them in their introductory year in high school.

ACADEMIC LIFE

In consistent surges, the contributions of administration and faculty transferred clarity of purpose and intellect to the students through processes of education. Adding contemporary views, guest speakers and current events paralleled textbook instruction. Advanced courses provided stimulus for interested students to broaden their grasp of future opportunities. Comparable to rapid blasts, preparations for evaluation set a fast pace for teachers and students alike.

Administration Readies School For Arrival of Evaluators

In preparation for the arrival of evaluators, the administration readied school activities by re-studying the philosophy of both teachers and students. Continuing the emphasis on student maturity, Mr. W. Albert Coulter, principal, again authorized the use of Individual Responsibility Cards and coordinated student and faculty relationships.

Mr. Kenneth French, activities director, kept the activities office busy as he handled the school's business affairs. Keeping the office well stocked with various supplies and keeping books, registers and other records occupied the time of his secretary, Mrs. Mary Cline.

In the various units, the three deans, Mr. Tom Dixon, Camper; Mr. Frank Beahm, Hart; and Mr. Paul Foster, Smith, supervised hall administration. Miss Frances Sanderson and Mrs. Mary Pilson, office secretaries, handled the office work necessary to keep school affairs running smoothly.

Guidance Counselors Advise Students On College, Vocational Plans

Gary Hess and Mike Moylan consider naval careers as they watch a film shown by chief A. K. Quesinberry.

Dr. Alvord Beardslee confronts college-bound seniors with truths about college life in his speech, "So You're Going To College!"

Mrs. Doris Egge, guidance coordinator, and the four unit counselors held counseling sessions, administered the state program of testing, and planned programs of group counseling for all students. College night offered juniors and seniors the opportunity to talk with representatives from sixty-odd colleges. During a special senior assembly, Mr. Alvord Beardslee, chaplain of Hollins College, addressed college-bound seniors on college life and responsibilities, while those who were job-bound watched a film which gave them employment tips. Guidance counselors were busy each day conferring, listening, encouraging, and scheduling.

Language Classes Accentuate Fundamental, Cultural Features

Furthering individual interests and fulfilling college requirements, students enrolled in foreign language classes. Spanish students prepared reports, in Spanish, on various phases of Spanish culture. The fourth-year Latin class translated Cicero and Ovid. Nine Spanish students attended the Spanish Tournament at North Cross on April 2 while eight Latin students attended the Latin Tournament at Roanoke College on April 16. The German class kept an up-to-date bulletin board on the current affairs in Germany. Unfamiliar dictations were a familiar part of the French classes. Foreign language teachers attended the state foreign language meeting held in Norfolk, Virginia on April 15, 16.

Business Curriculum Prepares Future Leaders

Students preparing for careers in business had the opportunity to take courses most beneficial to them. Introductory courses for future business leaders included general business, typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping. Such new machines as a mimeograph machine, a drawing board, and electric typewriters with script type proved to be valuable additions to the classes. Classroom techniques were applied and valuable experience was gained by students who were employed in local business through the Distributive Education program and Vocational Office Training. The semester courses of personal typing and notehand proved to be popular among students desiring fundamental skills.

Mrs. Caryl Solomon keeps a watchful eye on her business mathematics class as they struggle through a test.

Lab Work And Lectures Complement Science Study

Mr. Alan Hoover, Ray Watson, Bonnie Kelley, Joe Berman, Kevin Ridenour, Bob Williams, and Greg Gendron study the operation of a Geiger counter in physics class.

New vistas of study opened up to students through the complexities of chemical and biological sciences. Under the guidance of Mr. Tom Dixon and Mrs. Mary Pittman, students co-ordinated work in the laboratory with theory from textbooks and lectures in order to obtain an understanding of basic chemistry. Students of physics discovered the principles of energy through use of advanced problems and laboratory equipment. First year biology students pored over plants and animals for a basic knowledge of their environment. Field trips to the Veteran's Hospital and various dissections helped advanced biology classes master the functions of anatomy.

Ever-changing concepts in the field of mathematics brought new challenges. New methods of presentation characterized the various areas, and new ideas were formulated. First and second year algebra presented the fundamentals necessary for the further exploration and study of mathematics. Geometry put emphasis on the logical thinking. Trigonometry and college algebra submitted advanced ideas of mathematics. Business Mathematics provided valuable information to students planning to enter the business fields. A fifth year mathematics class offered those who qualified an opportunity to study the more complex areas of calculus and analytical geometry.

Awards, Concerts, Tours Enhance Fine Arts

At its Christmas concert in the Huntington Court Methodist Church, the choir performs "The Song of Christmas."

Departments of art, dramatics, and music combined efforts to give students a knowledge of the fine arts. Through tours and public appearances the band created a mood of appreciation and creativity in its audiences. Choir assemblies and concerts impressed the beauty of music on its patrons. Dramatics students produced a television show, "Masque—à la Mode", and four plays, utilizing their training in stage mechanics. The forensic participants placed in the various sections of competition at the district meet. Art students exhibited drawings and paintings in the three halls, while advanced students concentrated on sculpture.

Practical Arts Offer Advice For Modern Living

Varied areas of practical arts enabled students to acquire the vital skills for modern living. In home economics classes, units of study included clothing designing, serving, nutrition and cooking, interior decorating of homes, and the growth and development of children. A one year home-making course offered basic techniques to juniors and seniors who had not previously taken home economics. The main project of the industrial arts classes was the small-scaled mass production of lecterns to be used in classrooms. In ceramics, each student was required to make a mold for the purpose of duplication. Mechanical drawing taught certain fundamentals of architectural designing.

Drills, Lectures Emphasize Physical Health Education

Dwan Blankenship and Joyce Ragland take aim as they attempt to make points in archery.

Physical Education played a vital part in educating students mentally and emotionally, in addition to developing them physically. Class periods began with conditioning exercises which stressed agility and strength. Sophomore and junior girls participated in hockey, volleyball, basketball, and softball under the guidance of teachers and senior assistants. Girls also took part in gymnastics, modern dance, folk dance, golf, ping-pong, and badminton. Boys competed in basketball and touch football games; while gymnastics, wrestling, and field sports filled out the year's program. Personal problems, mental illnesses, diseases and good grooming were discussed in sophomore and junior health classes.

In Mr. Earl Quinn's sociology class, Danny White, Dianne Slusher, David Simmons, and Kathy Harris discuss problems of ethnic groups.

Widening its range of interest and information for the students, the Social Studies Department added an economics course and a sociology course to its scope. Each course spanned one semester. A combined American history and government class was taught on an experimental basis. Since this class covered a two year period, it combined the concepts of government with the history segment. Government classes again had a short study in economics. The advanced American History class took their annual trip to Washington, D. C. in early May.

English Department Alters Required Reading List

"A bold experiment in education" commented the State Evaluation Committee in rating the English department. While sophomores studied sophomore English, juniors and seniors continued in semester courses in the areas of composition, literature, and speech. Discussion Forum was introduced as a new course offering the industrious student the opportunity to become proficient in the arts of group discussion, argumentation, and debating, and in the use of parliamentary procedure. College-bound students, recognizing the necessity of polished reading skills, sought instruction and aid in a reading improvement class. Though somewhat altered from last year, the required reading list remained a part of the English program. Each semester course included two mandatory books plus two of the students' own choice from a list compiled by the English teachers. These required books were made available in the bookstore in the central office.

Adding a tone of cultural information to the English program were seven World Theater films made available to us on a free-loan basis by the Standard Oil Company. Each film featured the drama of a different country including England, France, Japan, Greece, Nigeria, India, and Sweden. These films were produced in English in the country represented.

Library Atmosphere Induces Reading, Research, Relaxation

As a central location for reading and research, the library supplied all students with authoritative and pleasurable reading material. Increased volumes in the library brought the total to over thirteen thousand. To gain clearer understanding of current events, students and faculty members utilized sixty-five periodicals and three daily newspapers. Mrs. Nancy Falls, librarian, and Mrs. Susie Muddiman, library clerk, directed students to the proper materials needed in research papers and special reports. Student helpers assisted by carrying out basic procedures of checking and processing books.

ATHLETICS

School spirit swirled into a gale as an avid student body gave support to diverse athletic events. Win or lose, triumphant or defeated, the teams were followed by eager fans who flocked to stadiums and gyms. Cheerleaders and band joined in boosting coaches and teams from the first football clash to the last baseball game. From biting autumn winds to soft spring zephyrs, athletics offered a major contribution to the excitement of the school atmosphere.

Cheerleaders Participate In Heironimus Cheer Rally

Although cheerleading activities weren't noticed until the fall, tryouts began the cheerleader's year. Bi-weekly summer practices developed proficiency in the chants, yells, and jumps. Tension mounted as the first football game approached with plans for a pep assembly to kick off the football season. The traditional task of preparing for Homecoming stimulated frantic poster production, dance plans, and parade festivities. In November, the cheerleaders participated in the Heironimus Cheer Rally. Fleming school spirit prevailed as the cheerleaders went through their routine. Football games ended, weekly meetings continued into basketball season. Traveling with the team to out of town games, the cheerleaders lended much to raising the morale of the players. As basketball season ended, the cheerleader's year climaxed with preparations for tryouts again.

Tough Season With 4-6 Record

The William Fleming Colonels got off to a slow start in 1965, winning only one of their first six games. Going scoreless in the first three periods of the game with William Byrd, the Fleming offense turned two Terrier mistakes into touchdowns in the last nine minutes to win 13-0. Fleming lost their next four games, scoring only 13 points to their opponents' 55. The Homecoming game proved a welcome change of pace for the Fleming eleven when they scored a 13-7 victory over George Wythe. The Colonels' first Group I-A win came when they romped over Grundy 34-18. The Colonels were edged out 14-13 by the Jefferson Magicians in the most spirited tussle of the season, but went on to win over favored George Washington of Danville 27-14. End Larry Guthrie and half-back Wayne Goodpasture placed on the second All-Western District Team.

Wayne Goodpasture pushes past the Grundy 30-yard line as Lonnie Mills (64) and Richard Patterson (22) back him up.

Goodpasture And Guthrie Chosen For Second Western District Team

Quarterback Wayne Goodpasture races toward the goal line "escorted" by a troop of Grundy players.

Jack Bowling waits in anticipation as his fellow Colonels battle against the Jefferson Magicians.

Pat Tankersley struggles for yardage as a Patriot from Patrick Henry hangs on his back.

In the game with Lane of Charlottesville Don McWhorter and Larry Carter try to bring down a "Black Knight" as J. P. Walrond (52) comes to the rescue.

Chuck Toms (42) waits for the hand off when Greg Gendron (11) is brought down from behind by a Patrick Henry lineman.

J.V. Football Completes Successful Season

Under the coaching of Mr. Edmund Bessell, the junior varsity football team rolled through a very successful season, losing only one game. Their first game with the Jefferson Magicians ended in a tie, the only one of the season. A game with Cave Spring scheduled for September 16 was called because of rain.

The biggest upsets of the year came when the Colonels defeated Northside and E. C. Glass with scores of 18-0 and 19-0, respectively.

Colonel Grapplers Retain Four Lettermen

Coached by Mr. Edmund Bessell, the Fleming wrestlers experienced an unsuccessful year, losing all their matches. The team, along with lettermen Richard Burks, captain, Donald Hedrick, Terry Barnett, and Wayne Webb, traveled to Abingdon to the Southwest Regional Tournament. Bill Evans and Dewaine Douglas competed in the State Tournament at Washington and Lee High School in Arlington.

Barry Renick gains two points in a reverse against a Patrick Henry wrestler.

Colonels Tie for Fourth, Lose To Patrick Henry In Play-off

Losing their first two games to Staunton Military Academy in a double-header, the Colonels came back to win their next four from William Byrd 5-3, Jefferson 5-4, and a double header from George Washington, 3-2 and 9-8. A long losing streak followed, interrupted by a 5-4 win over William Byrd. In a double-header with Halifax on May 12, the Colonels experienced their last win of the season when they split, losing the first 0-8 and winning the second 3-2. Defeated by Patrick Henry for fourth place in the Western District, Fleming ended up tied for fifth place.

Jay Moore crosses home to add to the Colonels' score against Cave Spring.

Western District

Coached by Mr. Paul Foster, the Fleming golfers finished fourth in the Western District, behind George Washington, Patrick Henry, and E. C. Glass. Letterman Danny Hughes, captain of the Colonels, placed seventh in the District Tournament. Joe Christenbury played the best round with a 73 against George Washington on May 4. He also held the best overall average for the season of 78.8 strokes per round and won 9 out of 12 matches. Christenbury, Hughes, Bobby Mays, Mark Noftsinger, and Tom Scott were starters for the Colonels.

Charles Schlotthober places first in the Western District high hurdles over both Joe Childress and Ed George of E. C. Glass, who placed second and third, respectively.

Breaks Three

Captained by Tony Light and Charles Schlotthober, the Fleming trackmen began the year with a 73-58 win over Andrew Lewis on April 1 and ended their regular season by romping over George Washington, 104-27. In between, the only loss was to district champs E. C. Glass, 84-47. The Colonels placed first in the Buena Vista Relays, third in the Dogwood Festival at Charlottesville, first in the Cosmopolitan Meet, and won the Group 1-A division at the Northside Invitational Meet. Charles Schlotthober broke three school records: triple jump, 42'8½"; 120-yard high hurdles, 15.1 sec.; and the 180-yard low hurdles, 20.5 sec. Other records broken were: Richard Patterson, 220-yard dash, 22.4 sec.; Tony Light, 880-yard dash, 2:02.3; and Gary Martin, two-mile run, 10:45. On May 14, the Fleming Colonels placed second in the Western District Meet held at Patrick Henry. Schlotthober went to the State Meet in Williamsburg to score 2 points by placing fourth in the triple jump.

Joyce Ragland exhibits skill as she volleys the ball over the net.

Experienced co-captains, Marilyn Bussey and Lynne Coleman, provided capable leadership for the girls' volleyball team this year. Losing only one set, the team won the city volleyball tournament with a 5-1 record. To win a set, the girls had to capture two out of three games.

Dwan Blankenship, Lynne Coleman, and Joyce Ragland were high scorers for the season. Skillful coaching of Mrs. Betty Smith combined with regular after-school practices were essential factors in the successful year. The junior varsity ended their roster with a 3-3 record.

Anticipation is the expression of volleyball player Susan Peters during final seconds of a Fleming-Jefferson game.

7 Wins, 1 Loss

Lynne Coleman makes a hook pass over the head of Hammorsley (32) of Andrew Lewis.

Practice was the key to the Lady Colonels winning season in basketball this year. Due to the strategy used by Coach Betty Smith and the skillful playing of team members, the girls took second place in the city-county with a 7-1 record. The most impressive win was a 58-1 victory over Vinton II. Co-captains Lynne Coleman and Marilyn Bussey led the Colonelettes in scoring.

ACTIVITIES

Co-curricular activities are blown into our after-school hours to provide a stimulating gust of thought and action. These coordinate scholastics and interests into one pattern of aims and accomplishments.

Winds blow high, winds blow low, and sweep us around the corner to a reward of scholastic achievement, swing us into the spirit of creating a 5th Symphony, a Michelangelo's "David," or a Gettysburg Address, and swirl us into the activities that serve the welfare of the entire school.

In August the 1965-66 S.C.A. held its first official event by sponsoring a hop to distribute the 1965 annuals. Participating in the sophomore orientation, the S.C.A. provided guides to escort groups of tenth graders around campus. The club activities calendar was posted on the newly purchased bulletin board in the electives building. Fleming served as the host school for the Roanoke District S.C.A. conference in October. Greg Gendron was elected chairman and Mrs. Jane S. Brill, head S.C.A. sponsor, was named advisor. Also in October, Fleming sent Larry Tate, Cliff Phillips, Peter Neglen, and Richard Trollinger as delegates to the Southern Association of Student Councils.

Rev. Quillen Delivers "Youth Ours But Once" At Beta Banquet

Scholastic recognition and leadership were the two by-words in the Beta Club. Voluntarily helping with the club's only money raising project, members sold programs at all home football games. As a service, the club furnished each hall office with a cart for the duplicating equipment and presented the social studies department a magazine cart with subscriptions to several newspapers and news magazines. In November, club members gave an assembly which acquainted the student body with the meaning of Beta, its goals, and tapped new members. The annual banquet was held on March 8 in the school cafetorium. During a candlelight ceremony, forty-eight new members were inducted including Peter Neglén, our foreign exchange student. Reverend Lonnie Quillen was the guest speaker and the juniors entertained the seniors with original skits. On March 18 and 19, ten chosen delegates attended the State Beta Convention held at Hotel Roanoke.

Key Club Constructs Sidewalks, Plants Grass, Distributes Flags

Serving both the school and community as a service organization, the Key Club, sponsored by the Williamson Road Kiwanis and Kiwanis International, finished its second year as one of the school's most active clubs. Under the leadership of Bob Williams, president, the club completed such projects as constructing fences around sidewalks, making flag holders for each room, and building sidewalks outside the gym. The club was in charge of raising and lowering the flags each day. On April 9, 1966, members took part in the Lily Day drive to raise money for sending crippled children to camp Easter Seal.

Key Club members, Stan Fowler and Kevin Ridenour take down the school flag on a Friday afternoon.

Butch Cooke and Bob Williams string wire barricades at corners around sidewalks to prevent students from "jay-walking."

Bob Williams, president, explains to members at a meeting about the distribution of American flags, donated by the American Legion, to the homerooms.

Kevin Ridenour, Bob Williams, Olin Melchionna and Mr. Fred Smith work on spreading cement for the sidewalks around the gym as the major Key Club project.

Science Club Members Tour Dixie Caverns, Engage In Science Fair

Rodney Burford, Mrs. Carole Massart, and Cathy Dress wait while the cars are loaded for their trip to the Virginia Junior Academy of Science in Harrisonburg, Va.

Beginning the years activities in early November, members of the Science Club took a tour of Dixie Caverns which opened new insights in the fields of science. Under the direction of Mrs. Carole Massart, sponsor, the club invited all science students to after school meetings which included science films and programs. Besides furnishing transportation to any interested student as a club project, many members represented Fleming in the City Science Fair held in March. After improving their projects, the winners later participated in the Regional Science Fair. Later in May the club elected six members whose science research essays were approved by the Virginia Junior Academy of Sciences.

Ronnie Moses, president, presides over a regular meeting of the science club.

Mark Sarver, Robert Brown, and Joe Berman await the trip to the V. J. A. S. convention in Harrisonburg.

Foreign Language Club Sends Scrapbooks to Four Countries

Newly organized, the Foreign Language Club created interest in the native customs of the countries represented — Spain, France, Germany, and Italy. Working through the Red Cross, the club assembled four scrapbooks containing information about Roanoke and Virginia. These scrapbooks were captioned in the appropriate language and sent to the representative countries. Sponsors Miss Anne Griffin, Mrs. Mabel Marmion, Miss Claudia Geiger, Mrs. Roma Gustin, and Mrs. Maryanne Ferguson aided Language Chairmen Joe Berman, Stuart Miller, Shirley Cullop, Don Pulliam, Pam Cooke, and president Kathryn Reynolds in planning monthly meetings. At Christmas each language sector presented the native Christmas customs of its country.

German Co-chairman Stuart Miller explains a Lutheran Christmas custom at the December meeting.

Brenda Tunnell, Susan Bertholf, and president Kathryn Reynolds work to complete the French scrapbook.

Miss Mason, German student teacher from Hollins College, tells of native German life by explaining her slides at the March meeting.

Members John Greer, Rachael McCroy, and Janice Herron enjoy open-faced German sandwiches and apple juice at the March meeting.

Thespians Receive Excellent Rating

For Play, "Two Sides of Darkness"

Blithe Spirit by Noel Coward opened the season with a command performance for the S.C.A. sixteen state conference. "Masques a la carte", an original skit by Mrs. Genevieve Dickinson, was presented for Educational Television by the Thespians. It was shown to the fifth graders and the Williamson Road Library. Tradition was broken when A Miracle for Mary was produced for the Christmas Assembly in place of A Child is Born. In April, at the District one-act play festival, the Thespians received an excellent rating for Two Sides of Darkness by Edward Pecunier which they also presented for the T.V. program Spotlight on Youth and Jefferson's Fine Art's Week. The Thespians ended the year with a production of the three act play Curious Savage by John Patrick.

On April 15 and 16, the Western District Forensics Meet was held at Andrew Lewis High School. Five Fleming students placed in the various areas of competition. The negative team, Cathy Via and Tom Shupe, placed third in debate. Joyce Hartman won a third place in Girls' Poetry with her reading of "White Cliffs of Dover". Our Town, presented by Renee Echols, placed second in Girls' Prose. Jayne Moore won first place in Girls' Public Speaking and went on to win the state championship in that division.

Hard Work, Creativity Characterize Colonel Staff

Copy staff members Janeth Slusher, Sandy Buchanan, co-editor; Brenda Ingram, co-editor; and Cathy Via ponder over the use of a quotation while writing the forward.

David Shelton, editor-in-chief, gains knowledge on a trip to Delmar Publishing Co. in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Working again on full-year coverage, the eighteen members of the Colonel staff met during sixth period and took on the trials involved in the production of "It's Just Wind Over the Hill." With Mr. Dean Egge as advisor and Miss Elizabeth Stone, assisting, the staff coped with drawing layout, taking pictures, and writing copy. As deadlines approached, staff members worked frantically after school and at night. On April 8, all interested staffers attended the second annual Yearbook Seminar held at Roanoke College. This seminar was designed as a practical training session for yearbook advisors and new staff members. These many tasks, common to all, ended only after the Colonel was distributed to students at a hop in the cafetorium in early September.

Newspaper Staff Publishes 16 Issues

Meeting every school day, the newspaper staff was able to publish sixteen issues of the school newspaper, the Sabre, and a senior supplement.

In November, six delegates from the staff; Cindy Snyder, Linda Porterfield, Sally Spencer, Diane Adams, Frances O'Brien, and Barbara Kelley, attended the University of Richmond Journalism Convention. Sally Spencer was also chosen as the most valuable staffer of the Sabre.

Along with Mrs. Love's Journalism class, the staff toured the Times-World Building in February.

The Sabre Staff is composed of writers and reporters, circulation members, and the business staff. Articles vary from school news and editorials to sports stories.

Staff members are chosen at the end of each year from applications submitted by the students.

Sally Spencer, co-editor-in-chief; Frances O'Brien, page editor; Donna Craig, photography editor; and Diane Adams, co-editor-in-chief, with Mrs. Love, sponsor, check the final copy of the March 18, 1966 edition of the newspaper.

Karen Eggers files subscription cards, Sally Hicks and Cheryl Elmore write ads, while Nancy Peck and Sue Powell check a list of merchants.

Joy Mills, June Simpson, Donna Sowers, and Linda Porterfield discuss past newspapers, as Becky Bowman, Carole Angle, Terry Moore, Barbara Kelley, and Russell Watkins review the stories they wrote as reporters and feature writers.

Mr. Harold Landis and the band put in another hard day's work as they prepare for an upcoming concert.

Pep band leader Jimmy Remine and members Mary Nichols, Kay Kelly, Betty Ballou, and Patsy Bowles practice "Dixie" in preparation for an outdoor pep assembly.

Colonel Band Wins Excellent Rating At Festival

In the fall, performing half-time shows for football games was a regular engagement of the band. Included in the schedule was participation in the Shrine Bowl parade in October and the Christmas parade in December. In February, thirteen band members attended All-state Band at E. C. Glass High School in Lynchburg. Under the leadership of Mr. Harold Landis, the band won an excellent rating in the District Band Festival at Cave Spring High School in March. Members of the band observed National Music Week in April by performing at the Elks Club. Among numerous concerts were a presentation at the Veteran's Hospital, a combined choir and band festival at the school in May, and various assemblies.

Following the direction of Mr. Harold Landis, the brass instrument players perform a special part with the rest of the band accompanying.

Looking over T. R. Powell's shoulder, one can see the music to "Peter Gunn", a pep assembly favorite.

Dance band members play a musical selection in an assembly for the student body.

Majorettes Contribute To Band Performances

Adding much to the overall appearance of the band, the majorettes performed skillful routines in many band activities such as half-time shows of football games and parades. During the summer the majorettes attended a camp for majorettes at East Tennessee State College where they learned new techniques and fire twirling. Throughout the year, the majorettes engaged in afternoon practices to improve routines. With sponsor, Mrs. Carole Massart, the majorettes had slumber parties to make tassels for their boots.

Colonel Majorettes are Becky Pillis, Sandra Tunnell, Jackie Bushman, Susan Carico, head, Ann Hughson, Brenda Morgan, and Sharon Hackworth.

Sandra Tunnell exhibits precision as she performs during half-time show of the Homecoming game.

Staff Publishes First Literary Magazine, "The Scot"

Struggling against inexperience, the newly formed literary magazine started from scratch to publish a worth-while issue. The staff sought the aid of English teachers in gathering material for The Scot, which the magazine was named. Then came the choosing of material, typing it, proofreading, and more typing. Meeting after school once a week, the staff worked diligently to complete the first issue of the magazine before school ended. Finally it was sent to the printer and the final copy sent back to the school and distributed to the students.

With business manager Gary Hess, Bob Chew checks the final copy of the literary magazine.

Mike Moylan, assistant editor-in-chief; and Miss Geiger, sponsor; go over the lists of subscribers to The Scot.

After patiently awaiting their arrival, Mike Moylan receives the magazines from the printer.

Sacred Concert In Hollins College's duPont Chapel

Opening the year with a program for District-P Teachers Meeting in September, the choir participated in many religious and social activities. At Christmas they sang for the Thursday Morning Music Club at St. John's Episcopal Church, in the annual concert at Huntington Court Methodist Church, and on a television program on Christmas Day. In March, the choir presented a variety show. April brought the Good Friday service at Huntington Court Methodist Church and the spring sacred concert at Hollins College Chapel. The Spring Festival featured the concert choir and the girls' choir, directed by Miss Beverly Brown, student teacher from Hollins. Baccalaureate and commencement closed out the choir's year.

Hi-Y Distributes Christmas Baskets, Civil Defense Forms

Serving Christian goals, the Hi-Y carried out two main projects for the year. First came the annual distribution of Christmas baskets full of food to needy families. Working with other clubs at Fleming and organizations at other schools, the Hi-Y participated in the distribution of Civil Defense forms. These had helpful information on the location of fall-out shelters.

Eddie Moore goes door-to-door in distributing Civil Defense forms for the nearest fall-out shelter.

Mr. Ernest Johnson, sponsor, checks grade averages of candidates for next years officers.

Officers, Eddie Moore, treasurer; Larry Rakes, president; Buddy Bryan, vice-president; David Via, secretary; and Gary Hess, chaplain, go over the distributon of the Christmas baskets at a bi-monthly meeting.

Y-Teens' Exhibit on Sweden

Suzi Barnett, secretary, hands out ballots during the election meeting.

The Lamplighters entertain Y-Teen members at the annual pot-luck dinner held in March.

Nancy Bain and Ann McCown participate in the Swedish display which placed first in the annual Street Fair.

Wins First Place In Annual YWCA Street Fair

Reverend Alvord Beardslee presents an inspiring talk during the Easter assembly.

Serving the community and school, the Y-Teens strived to obtain Christian goals. Each girl took part in the various club activities under the supervision of Mrs. Hilda Jesse, Mrs. Doris Egge, Miss Lois Cox and Mrs. Billie Wright. In June the officers attended Camp Craig for a worthwhile training session emphasizing leadership.

Among their many service projects were the collecting of money for disabled veterans and the adoption of an orphan during Christmas. Much planning led to the success of the Thanksgiving and Easter assemblies, the annual pot-luck dinner, and the winning of first place in the Y-Teens Street Fair.

"An Old-Fashioned Christmas" served as the theme for the Christmas dance in which Ann McCown, president, was crowned queen. Carole Angle, City-Wide President, was elected state secretary in October and chosen "Miss Y-Teen 1966".

Marilyn Maddex, Carol Underwood, and Nancy Cromer enjoy friendly conversation at a banquet for senior members only.

Y-Teen members Jackie Cundiff (William Byrd student), Sue Webb, and Carole Angle, Miss Y-Teen 1966, take a break during Y.W.C.A. Street Fair.

Judy Ninninger, Fleming's orphan, exemplifies friendship with a smile.

Rifle Club Members Learn Principles of Riflery

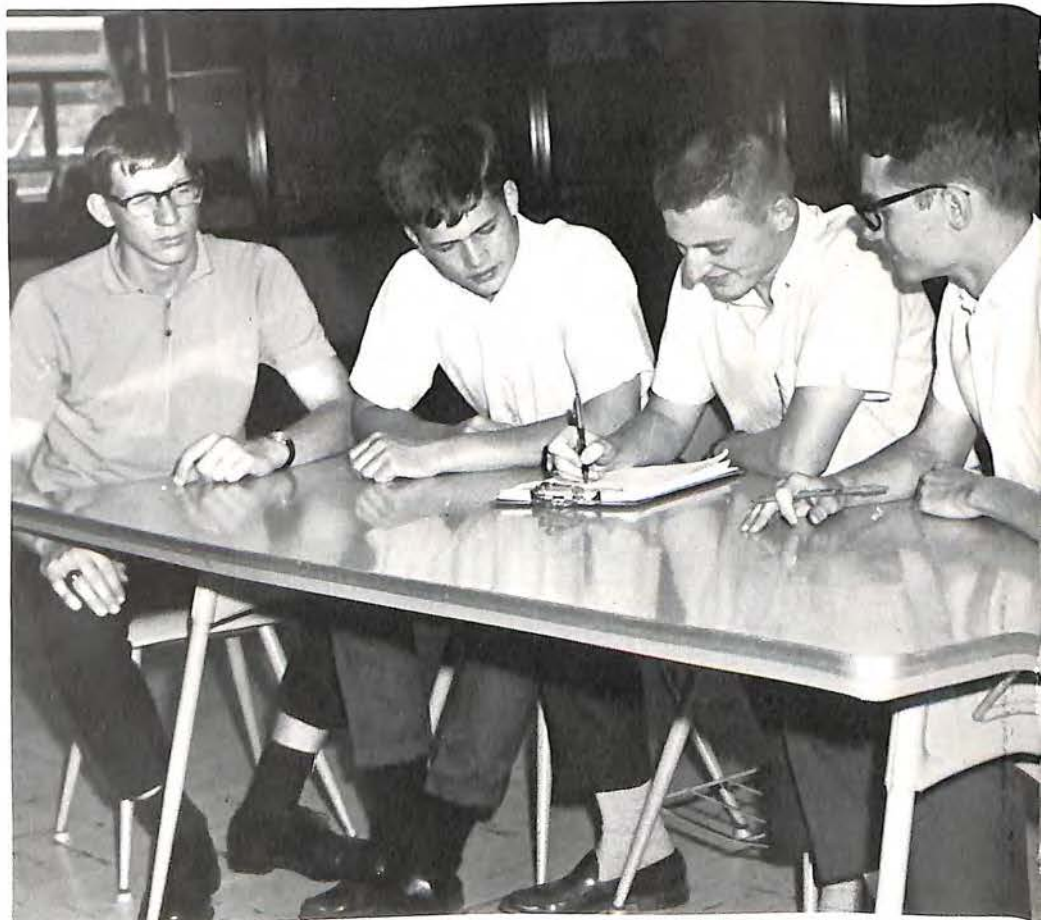

This year the Junior Rifle Club was organized as a new club at Fleming. It was founded by Tom Shupe and Mr. Frank Beahm, and it is accredited by the National Rifle Association. The members of the club learned the basic principles of riflery, which included the handling and care of guns and the safety precautions to be taken in their use. Club members competed against their fellow members for points on the rifle range. Their instructor, accredited by the National Rifle Association, was Major Charles Steele. Rifles were furnished for the members, or they could use their own.

Kevin Ridenour and Donnie Wingfield try their "shooting eye" on the rifle range.

Mr. Frank Beahm and Mr. Alan Hoover, sponsors of the Rifle Club, glance through a copy of the "American Rifleman."

Richard Burks, treasurer; Donnie Wingfield, secretary; Tom Shupe, founder of the club; and Jerry Smith, president; plan an agenda for the next meeting.

Members Collect Toys For South Vietnam Children

With the purpose "to extend the service of the Red Cross on a high school basis and to provide opportunities for service-minded youth," the Red Cross Youth sponsored two V. A. Parties at Christmas, a baby-sitter training course, and they also filled gift bags for children in South Vietnam. Under the leadership of Jerry Via, president; Carolyn Woods, vice-president; Pat Borroughs, secretary; and Mrs. Mary Townsend, sponsor; regular meetings were held after each city-wide meeting, which were scheduled the second Saturday of each month. Winning special recognition, Skeeter Corbett was elected president of the City-Wide Council for next year.

Linda Early, hoping to be a lab technician, gains useful experience in Red Cross Youth.

Kathy Corvin displays to her class the bags used in collecting toys for the South Vietnamese children.

Jerry Via, president, and Mrs. Mary Townsend, sponsor, discuss an article in the "Red Cross Journal" while preparing for a monthly meeting.

Art Club Leases Paintings From Fine Arts Center

Several activities kept the Art Club busy this year. Club members undertook their first project in the fall by producing paper megaphones which they sold at Fleming's football games. Money received from the megaphone sales paid for equipment which the club used in further projects. During Christmas the club, displaying zeal and Yuletide spirit, decorated the windows of the cafetorium with "stained glass windows" made of colored cellophane. Snow forced cancellation of a planned trip to Richmond in February, but a project to borrow pictures from the Fine Arts Center of Roanoke was carried out successfully. These pictures beautified the Smith Hall office for several months.

Pat Whitlock, president, and Valerie Deal sort pictures for display to art club.

Mr. Dean Egge, sponsor, Don Scott, Doran Vaughn, Valerie Deal, and Pat Whitlock discuss the choice of art club pins.

Doran Vaughn and Don Scott chose material for megaphones which were sold at football games.

F.H.A. Sells Tickets To Junior Miss Pageant

Brenda Jackson, out-going president, installs Mary Alice Townsend, Joyce O'Neil, and Pam Robertson as the new F.H.A. officers for next year.

Cecilia Frye studies with dismay the condition of her hot dogs at the F. H. A. picnic.

The Future Homemakers of America began their year with an outing for the members at Wasena Park. Members of the club raised money by selling both tickets to the Junior Miss Pageant and doughnuts. At a monthly meeting they heard Reverend A. N. Honaker speak on their motto for the year, "Morals and Manners Matter". During the evaluation of the school in February, the F. H. A. provided refreshments for the evaluation committee, and formed a bulletin board displaying their activities for the year. To finish their year with the bonds of friendship, the members had a cook-out on June 3.

F. H. A. members enjoy themselves at the F. H. A. picnic.

Peggy Hill Is Recipient of Future Teachers' Scholarship

While President Peggy Hill looks on, Susan Angle installs Susan Bertholf as secretary of next year's F.T.A.

Mrs. Trout, head sponsor, smiles at the discussion about the Honor Grad Tea.

In return for three years of hard work, Peggy Hill, president of the Future Teachers of America, was awarded the fifty dollar scholarship presented annually to the most deserving senior. Under the leadership of Peggy and Mrs. Joyce Trout, head sponsor, the F.T.A. participated in many club activities, both district and state. Besides giving numerous teas throughout the year, including the Honor Grad Tea, the Future Teachers graded papers, attended the district teachers' meeting in September, and observed teaching methods in elementary and junior high schools. Delegates to the state convention in Richmond were Peggy Hill, Donna Corriher, and Cindy Moore. The F.T.A. ended the year with its first installation-of-officers ceremony.

Diane Stout, city-wide member; and Sherry Duke, historian; serve Mrs. Massart at an F.T.A. tea given for the faculty.

As delegates to the F.T.A. state convention in Richmond, Donna Corriher, point keeper; Peggy Hill, president; and Cindy Moore, vote for state officers.

DE Members Learn Principles of Salesmanship

Sponsored by Mr. Douglas Murray, the Distributive Education Club began the year by gaining valuable experience in public relations and organization. Through various workshops and rallies, students familiarized themselves with techniques of salesmanship, advertising, speaking, and demonstrations. Their year's efforts were culminated at the district contests, where participants entered the various areas of competition. Prospective members were interviewed by Mr. Murray for the class next year. As a reward for their work, the students and their employers celebrated with the Employer-Employee Banquet, held at the Barn Dinner Theatre.

Mr. Douglas Murray attempts to teach his DE class the principles of salesmanship.

Barry Garst, vice-president; John Jennings, president; Pam Coffey, treasurer; and Debbie Staley, secretary; plan the Employer-Employee Banquet held at the Barn Theater.

During winter, drifts cancelled daily schedules, postponed exams, delayed report cards, and added confusion to the school year.

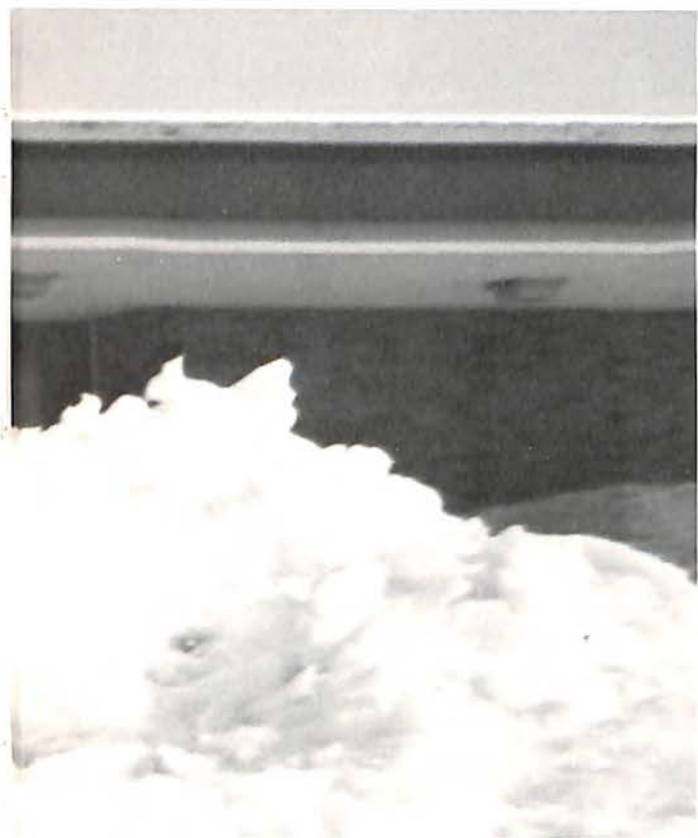

*All Times Past, We Sense
It Was Just Wind Over The Hill*

Who can tell the way of the wind? All those things we love and cherish must inevitably pass; they are blown in the wind of change and pass on unforgotten. As the crisp autumn winds merge into winter blasts, so do the facets of a student's life blend throughout the windy days. And so, as the springtime breezes calm our hill and herald the final phase of a school year, we realize that it is all wind over the hill.

A tree between the electives building and Smith Hall is blown by the winds during autumn.

Seniors leaving school find the winds of the future inviting.
